PROTEST ON ANGLO-JAP PACT GIVEN TO SIR BEILBY

British Minister Asked To Carry China's Case To London

TREATY PASSÉ

America Only Possible Menace And She Is Trusted Here

OPEN DOOR CITED

No Fear Felt That Hay Policy Is To Be Overturned

When Sir Beilby Alston, British Minister to China, sailed yesterday for England on leave he carried with him a petition to the British Government that records the position that has been taken by the dominant Chinese interests of Shanghai on the question of the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance and in no uncertain terms expresses the hope that the fact between Great Britain and Japan will not be renewed.

Virtually every one of the big Chinese financial and commercial interests of Shanghai, together with all of the student bodies and a number of Chinese organisations representing various activities, are interested in the petition which was presented to Sir Beilby shortly after his arrival here from Peking.

IS LONG DOCUMENT

The document in its translated form is quite voluminous covering some half dozen typewritten pages. It reviews the history of the alliance of Japan and Great Britain, pointing out the causes that led to the making of the treaty and presenting arguments why it should not be renewed. The text of the document has not yet been made public and it was understood that an arrangement to withhold its publication in China until after it had been made public in London was suggested. Before his departure Sir Beilby was unwilling to discuss the matter of the petition.

The important reason advanced in the appeal why the treaty should not be renewed is that the causes for it no longer exist. The causes that led to the drafting of the original pact, the petition points out, were found in the activities and aggressions of Germany and Russia in the Far East.

ARGUMENT PRESENTED

The petition emphasises that both these factors have been removed from the Far Eastern political situation by the war. It is contended therefore that a renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance can be directed only against the United States all of whose policies traditionally for decades have been built up on lines divorced from self interest.

The United States, the petition goes on, is the only power that has the strength to be a menace in the Far East and it is not to be believed that the United States overnight would move to alter a policy fostered through the years since the Hay treaty defining the open door policy was negotiated. The petition further explains at considerable length China's position in the situation that has arisen and the country's aspirations.

The Prince held a reception at the Theater at which thousands of ex-servicemen and nurses were present.

After luncheon at the Town Hall, the Prince held a levee and investiture at Government House. In the evening His Royal Highness attended a State Ball.

The Prince was the object of uninterrupted demonstrations of enthusiasm throughout the trip.

H. the Prince of Wales, here shown clasping the hand of a veteran Highlander whom he met in Honolulu, is concluding a most exciting and successful tour of Australia, where he was wildly acclaimed on the occasion of every public appearance. Disarm Germany At Any Price Is Decision Made By Allied Conference

Note Drafted For Spa Delegates Insists Upon Abolition Of Conscription By Late Enemy

(Reuter's Service)

Brussels, July 3.—The Inter-Allied Conference has come to the conclusion that it is necessary to secure the disarmament of Germany at any price, and Marshal Foch and Field-Marshal Sir Henry Wilson have been directed to consider practical means for imposing upon Germany the execution of the disarmament clauses of the Treaty.

READY TO PRESENT

Brussels, July 3.—It is understood that the Inter-Allied Conference has decided upon the draft note for presentation to the German delegates at Spa.

The note insists upon delivery to the Allies of all war material and also the abolition of conscription.

Brussels, July 2.—A new German note has been delivered to the Allies, in which Germany endeavors to show how she is crushed by war and the burdens of taxation and urges mitigation of the financial peace terms.

RECEIVE APOLOGY

Berlin, July 2.—The Minister of Defense has apologised to the Allies for the insulting behavior of the population at Bremen and elsewhere during the Allied Commission's tours of inspection, supervising disarmament.

DELAY ENCOUNTERED

Brussels, July 3.—The work of the Inter-Allied Conference has been unexpectedly delayed by a hitch in connection with Belgium's percentage of the German indemnity.

The incident is believed to be due to the action of Italy, who is stated to have demanded that Belgium should abandon in Italy's favor part of the percentage assigned to her.

It is expected that the matter will be settled today, Italy having declared that she will not insist on a system of annual payments, provided that agreement on the percentage of Germany's payments to each of the Allies is definitely reached prior to the Spa meeting.

Later.—The Conference of Premiers resumed discussion of the distribution of the indemnity. Provisional suggestions for division on a preferential basis were abandoned temporarily.

Proposals have now been made whereby Belgium will abandon the right of preferential indemnity receiving instead a percentage of the total reparation which will work out at France 52 percent, Great Britain 22 percent, and Belgium 14 percent.

It is understood that the Italians are favorably disposed towards the proposal.

AMONG THEMSELVES

Paris, July 4.—The Temps emphasises the necessity of the Allies settling their debts among themselves, since it maintains the present uncertainty threatens not only exchange but relations between Governments.

The Temps admits that Great Britain, who lost so many men and riches in the war, cannot be asked to forego her rights. The journal suggests that arrangements might be made whereby inter-Allied debts would bear no interest and be repayable in thirty years.

Such a sacrifice on the part of Great Britain the Temps declares, would save Europe from chaos.

MEMORIAL PRESENTED

Berlin, July 4.—A memorial signed by 22 prominent German economists which was presented to the Peace Conference on July 1, in view of the Spa Conference, says that the German offer of May, 1919, to pay a maximum of one hundred million marks gold cannot be repeated, as the economic position of Germany has considerably worsened.

Germany's minimum import needs for the next twelve months the memorial proceeds, amount to four and a half million tons of foodstuffs and three hundred thousand tons of phosphates, for which Germany requires foreign credits in the form of an emergency loan.

The memorial lays down the conditions of a new German offer including the stipulation that restitution of articles taken from the occupied territories be considered part of the reparations debt.

England Has Debt Successfully In Hand

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 1.—Receiving a deputation of the Federation of British Industries yesterday, Mr. Austen Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, declared that the Government's efforts to grapple with debt had been beneficial.

He counselled great prudence to business men but declined to give relief with regard to the Excess Profit tax either by extending the time of payment or taking payment in war stock.

AGITATORS SENT TO PRISON FOR MAKING THREATS TO AID STRIKES

Labor Situation Clearing As Rice Prices Remain At $12 And $14

INTIMIDATION CHARGED

Commerce Chamber Disproves Story Of Chang's Food Hoard In Shanghai

Although the labor situation in Shanghai is clearing up with the drop in the price of rice to from $12 to $14 a picul and general increases in wages the authorities found it necessary yesterday to take steps against agitators who have been intimidating workmen into quitting their places. Seven barbers were called before the Mixed Court yesterday on charges of intimidation and two of them were sent to prison for a week's terms. The other five were dismissed by American Assessor Tenney and Magistrate Kwan with a caution.

Inquiry made by a committee from the Chinese Chamber of Commerce into the report that General Chang Chin-yao, tuchun of Hunan, has a hoard of rice stored in godowns in Shanghai led to a finding that the rumor was without foundation. The rumor had it that General Chang had stored 150,000 bags of rice in foreign warehouses in the Settlement.

TAILORS NEGOTIATING

Between 3,000 and 4,000 tailors, makers of foreign clothing, went on strike for an increase of 30 percent in their wages on July 2. The matter has been submitted to arbitration and it was believed last night that the men will return to work very shortly.

Strike of 3,000 tailors making Chinese clothing is practically settled, although some of the men in the Chinese City and a few in the Settlement have not yet returned to work. These men struck on June 30. They demanded an increase of wages but did not stipulate the exact amount wanted.

END IS IN SIGHT

Strike of the barbers has not become general, but the 400 men who have already walked out have been very active. It was the activity that led to the arrest of the seven who were in court yesterday. The barbers demand 40 percent of the shops' receipts instead of the 30 percent previously alloted them.

In spite of the fact that all of the strikes have not yet been settled the authorities believe the end of the labor trouble is in sight. The employers, they say, have shown a willingness to meet the men more than half way and, barring another unexpected and sudden rise in the price of rice, little further trouble is anticipated.

Intervention May Be Necessary To Save Polish Army

Bolsheviki Make Alarming Progress According To London Reports

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 3.—Ominous reports have been reaching Brussels regarding the situation of the Polish armies, which are apparently hard pressed.

The Bolsheviks report that they have made a further advance towards Rovno, an important railway center on the Galician frontier. Anxiety is felt regarding the capacity of the Poles to maintain a prolonged resistance.

The Daily Chronicle, commenting on the situation of the Poles, says that they have played for high stakes and lost. There is no question of the Allies helping them to recover, adds the journal, but diplomatic intervention will probably be necessary.

AMERICAN CONSUL GIVEN SURPRISE

Upon his return yesterday evening from Soochow where he was the principal speaker at the graduating exercises of Soochow University, Mr. Edwin S. Cunningham, American Consul-General, encountered a wholly pleasant surprise when he discovered that the arrival of his birthday had been remembered in a graceful manner by the members of the Consular staff.

This was brought about at his home where the members of the staff gathered when a huge birthday cake made luminous with glowing candles was disclosed. An event of the occasion was the presentation of a handsome inkstand suitably inscribed. Mr. Cunningham smilingly spoke in response to the many expressions of congratulation that were voiced.

In the party are three United States Senators and 31 Congressmen; who, with their wives and families, bring the total of the party to upwards of 150.

SIX RUSSIANS BURNED ALIVE IN LOCOMOTIVE

Vladivostok Paper Describes Horrid Crime Charged Against Guerrillas

JAPANESE ACCUSED

"Review" Tells How Kalmikoff Bands Are Encouraged By "Invaders"

(Translated from Far Eastern Review, Vladivostok)

The inhabitants of the town Spasskoje state that the representative of the Provisional Government for this district, Mr. Kustovinoff, the correspondent of Russia; Arens and six other persons were burned alive in the furnace of a locomotive.

Kustovinoff was taken from his home and brought to the station. The others seized by the Kalmikoff's band were brought to the same place.

There are eye-witnesses of this horrible crime, but they are afraid to make any statements to the authorities at present, for fear that these bandits may kill them.

They say that the victims were severely beaten and then, still alive and conscious, were thrown into the burning furnace of a locomotive.

The brutes kept turning them around with red-hot iron forceps and pokers. The arms and legs of the poor men were tied together and their mouths were filled with hot ashes before they were thrown into the fire.

ARE THOUGHT TOOLS

It seems as if these brutes are mere tools for carrying out a well-worked plan of somebody else. The representative of the Provisional Government, Utkin and his secretary, Gragensky were shot by the leader of the same gang, Dimitry Korenef.

While in Nikolsk-Ussurisky a few weeks ago, they were arrested by the Russian authorities, but were set free by the Japanese. After the member of the Russian-Japanese conciliatory commission Mr. Zeltlin, made a protest, the Japanese command in Spasskoje disarmed a part of the gang and let the other part free, under the pretence that they were the militia.

HELD ON CARS

On the other hand, the real militia of the Provisional Government, which was sent from Vladivostok to Nikolsk in order to free the district from these robbers, were not allowed by the Japanese to leave the cars, under the pretence that the Japanese have to keep "neutrality" and cannot allow either side to fight the other.

But while observing this "neutrality," they do not object to those few armed Russians who are killing Government representatives. They do not object to them, in spite of the Russian-Japanese agreement, which provides that no armed forces shall enter a circle of 30 miles from a place where Japanese forces are located.

VERY SIGNIFICANT

It is significant that, as soon as the Russian forces withdraw from a place and it comes under "Japanese influence," the white guards appear on the scene and the "afflicting cases"—murders and coups begin. It is also remarkable that, while Utkin invited the leader of the Kalmikoff's band, Koreneff, to come to his ear and have a talk with him the latter gave the answer:

"I have to consult first with the Japanese headquarters."

Recently, at the station yamen, two deputies of the temporary parliament, proceeding to Vladivostok, were held up on their way and put in prison.

The train of the member of the Provisional Government, Dr.

BRITAIN SAID TO HAVE BEEN TREATING WITH THE ANTI-REDS

Remarkable Document Comes Into Hands Of London Newspaper Editor

CHURCHILL CONCERNED

Accused Of Having Agreed To Keep British Army In Russian Field

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 3.—The Daily News publishes a remarkable document, alleged to have been discovered by members of the Soviet at Archangel, while a copy is also stated to have been found among Admiral Kolchak's papers.

The document, which was handed to the British Labor delegates recently in Russia, purports to deal with negotiations between Mr. Winston Churchill, Secretary of State for War, and the "White Russian" representative, Colonel Goloven, who alleges that:

(1) Mr. Churchill enjoined the strictest secrecy, fearing criticism from the Labor Party:

(2) Mr. Churchill promised to help the anti-Bolshevik campaign in every way, undertaking to postpone indefinitely the evacuation of Archangel:

(3) Mr. Churchill promised to give secret help to General Denikin, and also to send technical troops:

(4) Selected Russian prisoners in Germany were to be organised to fight the Bolsheviks:

(5) Mr. Churchill promised to ask the House of Commons for £24,000,000 under the above-mentioned pretexts:

(6) In all intervention matters Mr. Churchill recognised the authority of Admiral Kolchak.

The document is in the form of a report by M. Sazonoff, the former Tsarist Minister for Foreign Affairs.

NIKOLAIEVSK AGAIN

Vladivostok, July 5.—Refugees arriving here from Nikolaievsk tell a graphic story of the reign of terror in the city before the arrival of the Japanese.

They state that 8,000 men, women and children were murdered by Triapicin and his followers, who were still in the vicinity of Nikolaievsk at the time of the departure of the refugees from the city and the surrounding districts.

The refugees state that a British gold mine and plant at Orsk was completely destroyed and one of the British staff murdered.

According to these reports, the Chinese gunboats did not fire on the Japanese, but remained strictly neutral during the whole period of the fighting. The refugees declare that the gunboats rendered valuable assistance to many foreigners and Russians.

VERDHNE-UDINSK ELECTIONS

(Daily News Agency)

Verdhne-Udinsk, July 2.—The day for the elections to the Verdhne-Udinsk city council has been fixed for July the fourth.

The Central Bureau of trade unions, the employes in the trade and industrial enterprises of the party of Social-Revolutionists and Social-Democrats, and the Cossacks of the village of Sandinskaya, which enters the electoral district, have already forwarded their tickets to the committee of elections.

MONEY REFORMS

("Russia" News Agency)

Vladivostok, July 2.—An agreement with regard to the money reform was arrived at yesterday between the local Consular Corps and the Provisional Government.

The time for the exchange of money for the foreign resident in Vladivostok has been prolonged until July the 10th. Until that date they must deposit old Siberian money in the local Russian or foreign banks.

Those who have deposited their money in local banks are then at liberty to withdraw their installments in new bank-notes, even before July 10. After July 10 they forfeit the right to exchange old Siberian money into new bank-notes.

STRONG OPPOSITION

The money reform met with strong opposition on the part of the Japanese residents and the Japanese press, which urged the Chinese residents to follow their example.

The newspaper Volio regards the money reform as the last decisive stand for economic independence of Russia.

Taking into consideration the stubborn opposition shown by the Convention Is Deadlocked; Wild Stampede Attempted When McAdoo Regains Lead

Democrats Now Planning To Introduce Compromise Candidate, Possibly Davis Or Brandeis; Cox Losing Ground

(Special To THE CHINA PRESS)

San Francisco (via Manila), July 6.—William J. Bryan today caused a sensation by announcing that Governor James M. Cox of Ohio was "too wet" to be considered as a Presidential candidate, and proposing that a hitherto "unproposed" man be nominated.

Supreme Justice Louis Brandeis has been suggested as the "dark horse."

All eyes are now turned toward the White House, and ears strained for word from that sanctuary, suggesting a way out of the deadlock.

(U. S. Naval Radio)

San Francisco (via Guam), July 5.—Hysterical excitement followed the announcement, in the Democratic National Convention today, of the results of the 29th ballot for a Presidential nominee.

Simultaneous with the announcement that the States of Indiana and Washington had transferred their support to the candidacy of William G. McAdoo, bringing the former Director of Railroads back into close competition with Governor Cox, the leader, the McAdoo cohorts went wild.

Parading up and down the aisles of the big Civic Auditorium with bells, whistles and every other sort of noise-making device they endeavored valiantly to stampede the convention into an endorsement of their Candidate.

In spite of their endeavors and exhortations, the Cox forces held fairly steady; although, on the 30th ballot, Mr. McAdoo once more assumed the lead, polling a total of 403 votes to 400 for Governor Cox.

PALMER STILL THIRD

Attorney General Palmer continues to run third, with 16[illegible] votes, and John W. Davis fourth with 63. Talk of making Mr. Davis the "compromise candidate," and breaking the deadlock waxed stronger as the day waned.

President Wilson received two Missouri votes on the 22nd ballot, the first he has received in the convention. The announcement failed to cause more than a ripple of excitement on the floor of the convention.

The Georgia delegation threw 28 complimentary ballots to Mr. McAdoo on the 21st ballot, but shortly thereafter swung back to Attorney-General Palmer, with whom they have been aligned almost from the beginning of the balloting.

LOOKING TO WILSON TO BREAK DEADLOCK

(Reuter's Service)

San Francisco, July 4.—The Democratic Convention is practically at a deadlock. Efforts are being made to induce President Wilson to publish a statement in favor of some candidate, but hitherto have had no result.

Mr. McAdoo's supporters, however, hope that the President will induce Mr. Palmer to release his votes in favor of Mr. McAdoo, but all indications point to the Convention being forced to compromise with one of the "dark horses," of whom Mr. Davis is the favorite.

It is expected that Mr. McAdoo will release his votes in favor of Mr. Davis.

"THE CROWN PRINCE"

London, July 3.—The New York correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says:

"Mr. McAdoo's chances of securing nomination are still booming but he is being injured by the title of 'Crown Prince,' invented by his opponents, who are losing no time in emphasising the charge that President Wilson is anxious to keep the Presidency in the family.

"The prospects of a third party being formed are increasing as it becomes evident that the Democrats will give the advocates of the Irish Republic small satisfaction and that the German element is becoming disgruntled over the League of Nations policy and the prospect of the continuation of Wilsonism."

MRS. OLESON APPEARS

San Francisco, July 3.—Mrs. Olesen of Minnesota was introduced to the Democratic Convention as representing the "Motherhood of America."

San Francisco, July 3.—After the Convention had adopted the platform, Senator Glass obtained permission to strike out a passage in the Soldier Plank. The correction, it is believed, will go far towards meeting the views of ex-servicemen.

The corrected passage refers to the soldiers' bonus and reads as follows:

"The fine patriotism exhibited by American soldiers, sailors and marines constitutes a sacred heritage. The worth of their work can never be recompensed

DISMISSAL OF LITTLE HSU IS OCCASION OF GREAT SCHISM

Prominent Peking Families Depart Hastily For Other Places

BY NATHANIEL PEFFER
(Staff Wire To THE CHINA PRESS)

Peking, July 6.—Little Hsu has left Peking suddenly and it is reported that he has started for Japan.

The cabinet situation is unchanged.

Tuan Chi-jui and Chang Tso-lin are negotiating as to the distribution of positions.

Peking, July 5.—The dismissal of Little Hsu injects a new and important element in the national political situation, and renews the latent feeling of unrest apparent here.

Rumors have been current since yesterday to the effect that Little Hsu's troops, gathered outside the city, have received orders to make a demonstration as a result of their chief's dismissal, in order to prevent further anti-Anfu activities.

Although the rumors were generally discredited, many wealthy families have already departed post-haste in the direction of Tientsin.

PARLIAMENT DELAYS

Parliament, as forecasted, is delaying consideration of Chow Shu-mou's appointment as Premier, which will probably not be confirmed for several days, owing to the lack of a quorum. This has been achieved, it is understood, by pre-arrangement.

Report insists that certain Anfuites have been paying members of Parliament for leaving the city "on urgent business," to prevent action on Chow Shu-mou's appointment. They are also attempting to obstruct the confirmation of the other new Cabinet members, in revenge for the dismissal of Little Hsu.

AN UTTER ROUT

The ratification by Parliament of Chow Shu-mou as Premier and the new Ministers will complete the utter rout of the Anfu Club as a political factor; at least for the present.

Hence it may be easily seen that the Anfuites are going to contest such legislation to the last carrier, yielding only when all hope of resistance—by force or otherwise, has vanished.

from the Treasury, and its glory must not be diminished."

Senator Glass, in the course of a speech this afternoon, in which he warmly lauded the work of soldiers, sailors and marines, said that he would shrink from the task of trying to compensate them for their sacrifices in dollars and cents.

The speaker added that the Republican Convention had said nothing in this connection. "They don't challenge our affection," he concluded.

PALMER HOLDS KEY

San Francisco, July 5.—There is no marked change in the candidate situation just prior to the 23rd ballot. Mr. McAdoo's supporters have decided to fight on indefinitely.

Governor Cox's supporters predict victory for their man, but are unable to show the reason. Apparently Attorney-General Palmer holds the key to the situation.

Later.—(Note telegrams giving the results of the 23rd to 27th ballots have not yet come to hand).

The result of the 28th ballot left the position practically unchanged, with Mr. John W. Davis in the fourth place.

Indiana and Washington "flopped" to Mr. McAdoo in the 30th ballot, the figures being Mr. McAdoo 403, Governor Cox 400, Mr. Palmer 165.

"ARE KEEPING FAITH" SAYS WILSON'S MESSAGE

San Francisco, July 3.—The President, in the course of his telegram to the Democratic Convention, in reply to its message of congratulation, said:

"While our enemies are endeavoring to isolate us among the nations of the world, we are following the vision of the founders of the Republic, who promised to the world the counsel and leadership of the free people of the United States in all matters, affecting human liberty.

That promise was deliberately renewed when we entered the Great War for human freedom, and we are now keeping faith with those who died in Flanders, and are redeeming it.

The course the Party has taken wills me with confidence of victory."

COLBY IS HEARD

San Francisco, July 3.—In the course of the Prohibition debate on the floor of the convention, Mr. Bainbridge Colby, after stating his belief that each delegate would vote on the liquor question according to his convictions, declared that Mr. Bryan was emulating the Republicans, who favored the Treaty, but who all had reservations in their pockets.

He said that it reminded him of that group of people, which is described as "meaning well feebly."

Mr. Colby diagnosed the trouble with the Senate as "intellectual lockjaw."

Senator Carter Glass bitterly criticised the efforts of those who would deprive President Wilson of the credit for the establishment of the League of Nations.

He said that the liquor question was omitted from the platform because the committee did not desire to becloud the issue.

Referring to the Treaty, Senator Glass said that he was unable to agree with Mr. Bryan with regard to the latter's declaration that he was willing to remit the $10,000,000,000 indebtedness due to the United States abroad, if that would bring universal peace.

The price of peace to the United States Senator Glass declared was the blood of American soldiers; and he was unwilling that that price should be remitted in dollars.

The proposed "bone-dry" plank was rejected by 919 votes to 155, and the "wet" plank by 726 votes to 356.

The substitute Irish plank was rejected by 675½ votes against 232½.

All other attempts to amend the platform failed, including one proposed by Mr. Bryan, to secure the adoption of a plank in favor of giving the Senate authority to ratify Treaties by a simple majority instead of the two-third majority, now required.

U. S. DESTROYER MAKES FAST TRIP UP YANGTSZEKIANG

After having set a new speed record for the trip from Shanghai to Hankow and return, the U.S.S. Destroyer Elliott is to sail from here today for north coast points. The Elliott took Admiral Albert Gleaves, Commander in Chief of the Asiatic Fleet, on the trip to Hankow and make the run in 27 hours. River steamers take three days for the voyage. The return trip was made in 24 hours.

French May Build Airplanes In China

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, July 3.—The Government announces that it is ready to aid French aircraft constructors in China by selling them material now in China, which was originally intended for Russia.

Two French companies, the Economic Organisation Bureau and the Compagnie Franco-Colombienne, are studying the possibility of sending representatives to China and two other firms are contemplating the sale of machines to Chinese enterprises.

Boone University Commencement

(China Press Correspondence)

Hankow, June 29.—The forty-ninth Commencement (for the summer season) of Boone University, Wuchang, was held in the Stokes Hall, Boone University Library, on June 26, when 25 students of the Middle School received their graduation certificates.

The special feature of the day was the conferring of the Honorary degree of Master of Arts by Boone University upon Miss Mary Elizabeth Wood, librarian of the university and one of the most ardent workers in the interests of modern education in China.

This is the first time that Boone has ever given an honorary degree, and the first recipient is an American woman.

Miss Wood came to China twenty year ago, and completes this year her 20 years service in the educational work of Boone University. Upon coming to Boone she found the library housed in one room in the old school building.

Having found in that department a singular opportunity for her service, Miss Wood at once threw herself into the task of making the library of the utmost possible use to the University and its students.

It was not until after years of hard labor that she got tangible success for her work. So well did she succeed, however that today the Boone University Library has become one of the strongest educational forces in this center.

It was through Miss Woods' efforts and influence that Boone has this magnificent library and the people of the Wu-Han cities can enjoy the privileges of a public library. It was also through her efforts that one of the old boys of Boone, Mr. Samuel Seng, was sent to America to pursue a college course in library science. Mr. Seng is now associate librarian of Boone.

What reflects still more credit to Miss Wood's work is the fact that she was instrumental in the introduction of modern library science into China. In the spring, this year, a course in library science was added to the curriculum of Boone, which is the first institution in China to have a course in library science. Eight college students are now being trained in this school of Library Science of Boone University.

Boone University Library at present occupies a big building of two stories with a total of 9,400 volumes of English books and 11,500 volumes of Chinese books. The library is also maintaining 23 circulating libraries for the benefit of people in other places.

In 1916 the reading-room privileges were extended to the general public, and there may be found on any day (when the library is open) a party of old-style Chinese scholars browsing among the Chinese literature in the Chinese reading room. Branch reading rooms have been opened throughout the city of Wuchang, for the benefit of scholars from other schools.

Another significant feature of interest of the library has been its regular series of University Extension lectures, which have done much to interpret the West to the East. Large numbers of students from government and private schools, as well as public men and others interested, have been attracted to attend this interesting course.

Such are the things that have made the name of Miss Wood so popular and so respected in these cities, both among her own country men and the Chinese.

The University Council feels that no one could have done more to extend the interests of good letters and literature and to disseminate popular knowledge and Christian education in Central China.

Among the speakers on Commencement Day were the Educational Commissioner of Hupeh, Mr. Lo, and Professor S. B. Harvey of the Wuchang Government Teachers' College.

THE INTERNAL SITUATION

Mr. Kruglikoff, Minister of the Interior, made a report to the financial committee of the Parliament on the internal situation in the district.

The insufficient number of militia forces in the district, as well as the shortage of armament, prevents the Government from suppressing the numerous gangs of Hunghutze now pillaging the country, he said.

SIX RUSSIANS BURNED ALIVE IN LOCOMOTIVE

Popoff, who was going to Habarovsk to put the city and district affairs in the right way, and carrying on his train flour for the inhabitants, was held up by the Japanese in Nikolaievsk under the pretence that they did not get any orders from their headquarters concerning this particular train.

REBELS GET RIFLES

The Hunghutzes, who are plundering Russian villages, carry Japanese rifles and are supplied with Japanese equipment and ammunition. The peasants prefer to leave their homes and fly to the woods rather than ask the Japanese for protection. If they try to protect or arm themselves, it is contrary to the Russian-Japanese agreement, and the Japanese have a pretext to formally occupy the country.

It is striking how the population keeps firm and realises the situation.

All these events have a close connection and pursue one aim: to give a blow to the Provisional Government, which is busy re-establishing all that has been destroyed by the Japanese coup of the 4th and 5th of April, and to dismember the country so that one town will not know what is going on in the other.

CONSIDER FACTS

If the Japanese military command is really peacefully inclined toward the Provisional Government and the Temporary Parliament, they have to consider such facts described as above.

With the small groups of Kamikoff's men, not supported by any body (they have no sympathy among the Russians of any party whatsoever) and left to themselves, the Provisional Government could deal successfully.

Whose fault is it that, along the railway from Nikolaievsk to Habarovsk, the population is terrorised?

The history of the Russian-Japanese relations since the revolution is the one tale—how all attempts to institute good relations between two races always finish; that one side talks much about friendship and the other gets the blows on the head."

Hunan Braves Are Suspected Of Plan To Join Outlaws

(China Press Correspondence)

Chi Kung-shan, Honan, July 3.—The Kin-Han Railway seems to be wholly in the hands of those who represent the Chihli P'ai. Retreating braves from Hunan pass up in trains from time to time. Many, it is feared, will go to recruit the ever-increasing bands of robbers that roam the country.

Smiles from the Mixed Court

"My fiend he have come from Hankow side; my must wanchee pay him happy time," glibly explained Kyen Sau-woo when he was asked to explain to the Mixed Court why he had hired a motor car from Yih Chung-cha and then refused to pay the bill.

Kyen and his "fiend" had a merry joy ride and then returned the car to the garage.

"My wanchee you come my homeside, my catchee plenty cash," the patron told the garage man. Yih consented to go along.

When they came to a dark street, Kyen opined he could find his house all right with the aid of a few matches. He lit matches for a time and intently studied various house numbers.

Then he snatched up a handful of sand, threw it in Yih's eyes and ran.

"He done me dirt," mourned Yih.

The court agreed that Kyen hadn't come clean and gave him a month.

Chi Kung-Shan Is Popular As Resort

(China Press Correspondence)

Chi Kung-shan, Honan, July 3.—Each year the number of those who attend the summer resort of Chi Kung-shan increases. The boundary of the provinces of Honan and Hupeh runs right through the center of the place so visitors can either gaze from the mountain top on the far stretching plain of Honan, or revel in the wonderful hills and valleys of Hupeh.

The Chinese government has granted an extension north of the Mission Valley, and numbers of new houses are being erected.

The harvests in Honan and Hupeh have been fairly good, so there is no lack of rice and wheat; but prices compared with other places seem to be ever on the upward grade.

CHANGSHA HELD IN FLOOD GRIP

Otherwise Quiet, Save For Serious Outbreak At Normal School

(China Press Correspondence)

Changsha, June 30.—Changsha seems to be due for its share of excitement this spring. No sooner had the military situation cleared than we were visited by a flood.

The Chinese have said for months that this year would see the water higher than at any time in recent years. Most foreigners did not have much faith in this prediction, as the water seemed unusually low, but within the last week it has risen to about 37 feet on the Customs gauge, approximately the same as the maximum of 1914 and within a few feet of the great flood of 1906.

The water is six feet deep on the Bund and came in through several of the city gates. There has undoubtedly been a very large loss in the rice crop.

CITY IS QUIET

The city is very quiet and peaceful under the control of Governor Tan Yen-kai, who is popular with the people. Chang Ching-yao and his troops have left Yochow for parts unknown; and, although the latest reports are that General Feng with his northern troops are still at Changteh, it is believed that there is an understanding between General Feng and Governor Tan.

During the exit of the northerners there was a great deal of burning and looting in the smaller villages of Hunan, and wounded citizens are coming into the hospitals from these outlying districts with harrowing tales of the cruelty of the northern troops.

Due to these difficulties in the Province, the annual meeting of the Hunan Christian Educational Associaton was cancelled and most of the Mission schools omitted their graduation exercises.

BLAMES SUPERSTITION

The only disturbance which has occurred in Changsha since the occupancy of the southerners is a curious example of the persistence of superstition in a supposedly progressive city such as Changsha.

Several years ago a certain Changsha Normal School took over a temple in the northern part of the city and the students removed the idols to make room for their school. When the northerners came they drove out the students and replaced the idols.

As soon as the northerners left this June the students returned to the school and destroyed the images. The people of the neighborhood were very angry with the students because of this action, for they claimed it was due to the efficacy of these idols that Changsha had come through the dangerous change of government so safely.

KILL AND BURNED

A mob collected early one morning, broke into the school and apparently tried to burn the students alive. They managed to kill one student (some say three) and three others were seriously burned and are now in Red Cross Hospital.

American Princess Held In Switzerland

Princess Christopher of Greece, formerly Mrs. William B. Leeds, (American) and her husband, brother of the deposed King of Greece, are in Switzerland and it seems likely they will stay there indefinitely, since she and her royal husband are unable to get their passports vised.

They blame, according to the reports, Premier Venizelos for their predicament, alleging that he arranged with the Allies to hold them as virtual prisoners in the mountain republic.

The Princess inherited about $14,000,000 from her first husband, who made his fortune in tin plate. She was married to Prince Christopher several months ago in Switzerland.

Seamen Approve Free-Agency Proviso

(Reuter's Service)

Genoa, July 2.—A plenary sitting of the International Seamen's Congress today approved the draft convention, presented by Mr. Barlow, reporter of the Unemployment Committee, abolishing private employment agencies, suggesting the substitution of free State agencies, seamen having free choice of ships, and providing for insurance against unemployment after ship-wreck.

THREE-WATCH

Genoa, July 3.—The committee of the Seamen's Conference has decided to recommend the adoption of the three-watch system in large vessels, both for deck and engine-room, including officers, the necessary regulations to be made after consultation between the organisations of shipowners and seamen.

The committee further decided that there should be no limitations of hours in case of emergency.

No Hope Of Slump In Cotton, Report

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 4.—The Weekly Despatch publishes a statement by Sir Charkes Macara, chairman of the Manchester Master Cotton Spinners Association, in which he expressed the opinion that the world position of the cotton industry offers no hope of a slump or even of any marked lowering of prices.

The only thing that could cause a marked decline in prices, he said, would be a removal of the excess profits duty, the continuance of which, he declared is indefensible.

Offensive Resumed By Greek Forces

(Reuter's Service)

This movement threatens to cut off the Nationalists around Mount Ida and near the Asiatic shores of the Dardanelles.

GRAFT CHARGES PROVE BOMB IN JAPANESE DIET

House Thrown Into Confusion When Accusations Are Hurled At Ministers

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 6.—The Lower House of the Diet, during its special session today, was thrown into confusion and went into recess owing to an accusation, made by Mr. Shimada, the Opposition leader, that the Minister of Finance, Baron Korekiyo Takahashi, and the Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Tatsuo Yamamoto, had speculated in stocks prior to the recent depression.

Baron Takahashi and Mr. Yamamoto vigorously denied the charge and declared that the report, to which Mr. Shimada referred, was published in a small and unreliable newspaper. The Premier, Mr. Hara, defended his colleagues, declaring that the charge was entirely without foundation. The session was suspended for four hours.

CENSURES GOVERMENT

Osaka, July 5.—The Osaka Mainichi censures the Government's financial policy, which was announced in the Diet on Saturday.

The journal says that there is nation-wide opposition to the proposed increase of taxes and points out that, although the Finance Minister "dexterously camouflages it," it is military expansion, which necessitates the increases in taxation.

The expenditure on the improvement of railways, telephones and telegraphs, etc., it continues, is insignificant, compared with the proposed military expenditure. The journal expresses the gravest misgivings with regard to the "so-called military expenditure," which, it states, is almost the same amount as that proposed at the last session.

The Mainichi contends that such expenditure should be greatly curtailed, if the Government announcement of the withdrawal of troops from Siberia is to be carried out.

OFFICIALS REPRIMANDED

Osaka, July 5.—Four public procurators have been reprimanded for illegal action in connection with the Kyoto official bribery and corruption case.

German Nation Is Entitled To Help, He Says

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, July 3.—Lord Abernon, the British Ambassador, when presenting his credentials to President Ebert, declared that provided confidence were re-established by loyalty and good faith, the German nation was entitled to expect not only latitude but also assistance in development.

"The world crisis," Lord d'Abernon added, "can only be met by general co-operation. The essential foundation for us is firm maintenance of our present alliances and strict execution of the peace treaty."

President Ebert replied that the German Government and people were united in an earnest resolve to meet their obligations and dispel the atmosphere of distrust.

Mobs At Chinkiang Protest Rice Price

(China Press Correspondence)

Chinkiang, July 2.—There is great excitement in Chinkiang over the high price of rice. Mobs have gathered and threatened the rice merchants.

It is reported that a mob entered the house of a man who was accused of exporting rice and destroyed everything they found.

This afternoon the Maloo was thronged with people. Great crowds gathered before the office of Dr. Taiang Hwai-ren, who was accused of being in the rice export business. He is a wealthy citizen and his home was saved only by the interference of the police and a company of soldiers, who are still on guard.

All the doors to the doctor's offices are now closed and barred and the entrance to his home is barricaded.

The officials have promised the people cheaper rice in a day or so. Definite plans are on foot to relieve the situation.

ONE MILLION CLUB TO WAR ON PRICES

New York Consumers Combine To Reduce High Cost And Stop Extravagance

SANDWICHES FOR MONDAYS

Wednesdays For Stay At Homes And Fridays To Spend A Cent At Grocer's

New Yor, May 30.—A new offensive against high prices and profiteering is to be started here today. It is to be conducted by the "One Million Club," and is described by Charles Baumgarten, its originator, as "the opening gun of the movement to break the vicious circle of profiteering and extravagance."

Mr. Baumgarten, who is employed as a municipal examiner, a civil service position in the Board of Estimate, said last night he conclered the organisation in response to "an insistent demand from all over the country for some concerted action against the profiteer." He admitted his plan had no official backing and no funds, but said he had found one person in every six or eight to whom he had talked ready to enlist in a volunteer army of price fighters, and expressed his confidence that enough volunteer workers could be found to carry it through without dues and without soliciting funds.

This is the plan as he announced it:

"Simply stated, the aim of the One Million Club is to enlist the co-operation of 1,000,000 New Yorkers, both adults and children, and demonstrate through a definite program, as suggested herewith, what the profiteer may eventually expect if manipulation in necessities does not stop. After the club has reached the expected strength needed a week will be selected for the following demonstration:

THE JULY WEEK

First Day—Sandwich Monday—Bring your lunch or buy only sandwiches. Cut out expensive lunching and dining this day.

Second Day—Tuesday—Abstain from buying candy, cakes, preserves, ice cream, soda, cigars, cosmetics, etc. Don't get shaved, manicured, etc.

Third Day—At Home Wednesday—Stay home and entertain a party of your friends instead of going to the movies or the theater or any paid show.

Fourth Day—Thursday—To be determined.

Fifth Day—Penny Friday—Try to buy something for a cent from your grocer or other "merchant" and see what you get. Let him know you are a jolly millionaire.

Sixth Day—Promenade Saturday—Grand promenade of the one million on Saturday afternoon in the shopping districts for the edification of the shopkeepers that specialise in luxuries. Safeguard your pocket with a safety pin.

Seventh Day—Gasless Sunday—Help by saving gasoline and tell the garage man. Rather go to church in the morning and some concert or outing in the afternoon. Special program and lectures to be arranged.

Fourth of July—A real old-fashioned Fourth celebration and signing of the second Declaration of Independence, all over. "It is hoped to recruit the full million in four weeks. The campaign opens Tuesday.

ESTABLISH HEADQUARTERS

"Headquarters of the One Million Club has been established at 318 East Sixty-ninth Street. Telephone Rhinelander 5443—with Mrs. Charles Baumgarten as Secretary and Maurice Sendax, Chief of Staff.

"A board of twenty-four members will direct the activities of the organisation. They will represent the following divisions and be augmented as necessary:

1. The city, county and Federal Government.
2. The churches, etc.
3. The schools, colleges, etc.
4. The press.
5. Organised labor bodies and kindred organisations.
6. Financial and kindred organisations.
7. Civil organisations.

"There will be no dues. The members will simply pledge themselves to co-operate in putting to an end the riot of extravagance and reign of the profiteer, for which they alone are to blame, and which they and only they themselves can abolish—peacefully and forever."

Accompanying the announcement was a recruiting blank, ruled for enlistments, and headed:

"The undersigned enlist to co-operate in the movement of the One Million Club to make further profiteering impossible; to end the existing riotous extravagance, and bring about a return to sanity by pledging themselves to unite in a concerted action tending toward the peaceful, lawful and orderly accomplishment of this purpose."

Mr. Baumgarten said he made his wife Chairman because she was at home in the daytime, and that he was offering his own home as headquarters.

Funeral Arrangements Not Complete For Shen Tun-ho

Fame Of Philanthrophist, Founder Of Hospitals And Commercial Leader Spread Throughout World

Arrangements have not yet been completed for the funeral services of the late General Shen Tun-ho, who died at his home, 34 Burkhill Road Monday evening, but it is expected that they will not take place for at least two weeks.

General Shen's death came at a time when the new Chinese Infectious Diseases Hospital, of which he was one of the founders, was being opened to the public.

General Shen, who was a native of Ningpo, was 64 years of age at the time of his death. He was educated at Cambridge and combined the talents of the Orient with a thorough understanding of the Occident. He was one of China's really big men and he will be sadly missed.

MANY PHILANTHROPIES

His philanthrophies were many. His activity in the commercial life was marked by brilliant success and his ceaseless efforts on behalf of the Red Cross at the time of the revolution, during the later rebellion and still later during the Great War won him the admiration and respect of foreigners and Chinese alike. He was a vice-president of the Red Cross until a short time before his death.

In the days of the Manchus General Chen won his army rank and also held a high official position at Taianfu. He is credited with having caused the installation of the heavy guns at Woosung Forts and with exceptional work in famine relief during the Chihli floods and at Hupeh.

MANY ACTIVITIES

He was the founder of the Chinese Public Isolation Hospital, the Chinese Cholera Hospital and the China United Assurance Company. He was formerly connected with the China Merchants Steam Navigation Company and was an executive of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce for many years.

The general was decorated by the Manchu government, by the Republican government and by many foreign governments in recognition of his activities.

His "hobby" was the collection of porcelain and he is reputed to have had an exceptional selection of fine pieces.

GAVE AID TO ALL

The benefactions of General Shen were varied and extended to every caste of Chinese. He was not strongly in favor of factions and a countryman who was ill was simply a countryman of his in his eyes, no matter what his politics or creed might be. This was never more strongly evidenced than at the time of the rebellion. He had posts to care for the sick and wounded in the camps of the government troops and with the rebels and in the neutral zones and all patients were treated with equal care and consideration.

When General Shen undertook the cause of the new hospital in Thibet Road, which was opened Monday, he did it with characteristic vigor. He was tireless in his efforts to raise funds and was rewarded with great success.

An incident of the campaign for funds is told. A wealthy Chinese who had been cured of a serious ailment by foreign medical aid was approached by the general who called the attention of the former patient to what had been done for him.

"You have your health—and it is worth more than the fees you paid," the general told this man. "Won't you help now to provide for the treatment of those less fortunate than yourself who are unable to pay?"

The wealthy man would and did. He gave $1,000 then and added $200 Monday when he saw the new hospital.

Fame of General Shen's hospital and Red Cross work has gone to the ends of the earth. Wherever there is Red Cross work going on, and that is nearly everywhere, the story of the Chinese who had the foresight to undertake advanced ideas in the Orient years before they were generally adopted by the organisations in the Occident is known.

This story was taken to Geneva by Major Stafford M. Cox who attended the Red Cross convention there last October. Major Cox astounded the delegates by telling them the story of what has been done in China by General Shen.

Tennis Championships Are Won By Americans

Tilden Is Victor Over Anderson In Singles And Garland And Williams Take Doubles

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 3.—In the challenge round of the singles lawn tennis championship of the world William T. Tilden (America) beat G. L. Patterson (Australia) the holder, 2-6, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

IN THE DOUBLES

Wimbledon, June 3.—In the final of the world's lawn tennis championships, gentlemen's doubles, Messrs. C. Garland and R. N. Williams (America) beat Colonel A. R. F. Kingscote and Mr. J. C. Parke (England) 4-6, 6-4, 7-5, 6-2, thus becoming champions of the world, owing to the champions not defending their title.

In the final of the mixed doubles, Mr. G. Patterson (Australia) and Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen (France), beat Mr. R. Lycett (Australia) and Miss Ryan, the holders, 7-5, 6-3, in one of the greatest mixed doubles ever seen. Mr. Lycett is a particularly fine doubles player.

In the ladies' doubles, Mlle. Lenglen and Miss Ryan beat Mrs. Lambert Chambers and Mrs. Larcombe 6-4, 6-0.

Tilden's victory was the result of the most convincing all-round tennis ever seen in this country.

The pace was terrific throughout. Both Tilden and Patterson possess super-services which furnished both with many winners outright. But the test came when, after the experimental first set, Tilden settled down to plugging losers backhand relentlessly with a heavily chopped ball, which throughout the last three sets Patterson was seen netting consistently.

Experts point out that Patterson's backhand is fundamentally weak because he plays it with a forehand grip and the forehand face of the racket.

GREAT PLAYER

William L. Tilden (America) by virtue of his victory over Mr Patterson (Australia) become the champion male tennis-player of the world.

Several times during the recen tournament at Wimbledon the brilliant work of the new title holder has been the subject o comment by English experts, who have described his exhibitions on the famous "Center Court" a among the most brilliant in the history of English Tennis.

Tilden's performances throughout the tourney—notably in his matches against Capt. J. C Parker and Major Kingscote—have been nothing short of remarkable. The American youngster is coming to be known as a fit successor to Maurice McLoughlin, "The California Comet,' who flashed so brilliantly through the tennis world a few season's ago.

In Tilden, Johnstone, Williams and Garland it is now believed that America has a tennis team which stands an excellent chance of winning the forthcoming Davis Cup matches in Australia and lifting the famous American trophy.

Annual Rifle Meeting Held By Engineers, S.V.C.

Interesting Program Staged Under Unfavorable Weather Conditions—Mrs. Pearson Awards Prizes

The eleventh annual rifle meeting of the Engineers, S.V.C., took place on Saturday and Sunday last. Company Sergeant Major Mackenzie, owing to the absence on home-leave of both Captain Brooke and Lieutenant Young, was in charge. Some ninety percent of the company's strength, at present in Shanghai, participated in the meeting, and a very interesting program was staged despite the unfavorable weather conditions.

The clerk of the weather seemed to try his level best to damp the ardor of the Sappers, but they were out, as they always are when in uniform, to make a success of whatever they undertake, and with that spirit prevailing, the meeting was bound to be the successful one it was. Upon arrival at the range the Engineers found the telephone service connecting the butts with the firing point had broken down. They immediately set to and installed their own telephone system which could be extended or shortened to suit all ranges at which firing took place.

On Sunday an excellent tiffin was provided and among the guests who sat down were the Commandant, Lieut.-Col. Marr-Johnson, C.M.G., D.S.O., Major Trueman, Captain Godfrey, Captain Pearson and the Engineers' old and esteemed friend, Mr. John Prentice. Captain Godfrey, at the request of the Sergeant Major, presided. After tiffin a few short but pleasant speeches were made and then the Engineers, with their guests, returned to the range, the former to fight out the two remaining items on the program i.e., the "Knock-out" and the "Ladies" Prize" competitions.

At the close of those two events tea was partaken of and afterwards, Mrs. C. D. Pearson, who had kindly come down to the range, at the invitation of the Engineers, distributed the prizes. After the prize distribution, the Company's Sergeant Major thanked Mrs. Pearson on behalf of the Company and asked her acceptance of bouquet.

American Olympic Team Trainer

Lawson Robertson.
INTERNATIONAL.

Lawson Robertson, athletic coach at the University of Pennsylvania, will probably be selected as trainer of the American athletes who will compete in the Olympic games at Antwerp this Summer. It is understood that Robertson is favored for the post by Samuel J. Dallas, of Philadelphia, president of the A. A. U. When the last Olympic games were held at Stockholm, Robertson accompanied Mike Murphy, dean of American coaches who was in charge of the team, as associate trainer. Several other prominent coaches have been mentioned for the post, but it is likely that Robertson will be the ultimate choice.

AERO MAIL SERVICE WILL BE EXTENDED

New Routes East And West And North And South Are Planned, Otto Praeger Says

Atlantic City, May 29.—Aero mail routes will cover extensive areas within the coming year, according to an announcement officially made today by Otto Praeger, Second Assistant Postmaster General, who explained the plans of his department in an address at luncheon before the third Pan American Aeronautic Congress.

He made vigorous denial of the current reports that Postmaster General Burleson, in advance of inviting bids for the service, had promised contracts to any individual or corporation. Conditions attached to the authority granted by Congress to expand the aero service, he said, contained a clause which required that the cost should not exceed that of carrying the mails by rail. It would not be a surprise if the air route could be operated at a saving of 50 percent, he said. It was planned to establish them East and West, North and South, wherever there was an opportunity to quicken mail deliveries.

"Gratifying as has been the development of the aero mail under direct Government operation, the Post Office Department has always felt that additional incentive could be given for the development of commercial aviation through the letting of contracts in addition to the aero operation by the Post Office Department itself," he said.

In denial of the accusation that contracts had been promised, he said: "No contracts had been let or promised, but judging from the number of prospective companies from the Atlantic to the Pacific, I feel hopeful that a number of good aerial mail contracting routes will be put into operation during the coming fiscal year. Under the law the procedure will be as follows:

"After selection of routes on which the saving on cost of rail transportation will equal say 50 percent or more of the probable cost of the aero route, with a utilization of part of the cargo space of the plants, the specification will be advertised and sealed competitive bids invited. An equal opportunity will be given all and no one company, or group, will have the edge on its competitor. The contract requirement will be reasonable. Bond will be required, so that a dependable service may be maintained, and failure, with consequent setback to aviation, be avoided.

IS THIS YOUR TROUBLE?

A little trouble, quite easily remedied if dealt with in the right way, is the cause of much of the irritability, gloom, and that general sense of "out-of-sorts-ness" which habitually afflict many people. The trouble is constipation; its remedy is Pinkettes, the little laxatives, which, whilst wonderfully efficient, neither gripe nor purge.

If you are constipated, bilious, liverish, have sick headaches, coated tongue, foul breath, try Pinkettes TONIGHT, and see how much better you will feel tomorrow morning. Pinkettes also prevent diarrhoea and dysentery and relieve Piles. Obtainable from dealers, or at 60 cents the vial, post free, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

Shensi Military Politics And Developments There, Are Discussed By Observer

(China Press Correspondence)

East Shensi, June 21.—It is difficult even for the closest observer to understand, what actually is going on in this Province at present. I will, however, try to give a resume of what has happened these last two eventful months, as well as point out some apprehensions among the more enlightened citizens.

Hsu Lan-chow, the Lieutenant-General from Fengtien, had received orders from the North to leave the west of the Province, where the Tuchun, Chen Shu-fang, had kept him for two years; and to return again to the North. This move seemed to please Chen well, as he had long suspected the ulterior motives of Hsu.

Whether this order was camouflaged; or, in reality, given for strategic reasons, to enable Hsu to return to and occupy Fort Tungkuan, the most important point in the whole province—is hard to find out.

MADE COMPROMISE

However, Hsu would go by the way of the province capital, but Chen objected and so it was agreed that Hsu himself could go whatsoever road he pleased, but that his troops must keep to the south on their way to Tungkuan. However, they changed their mind and decided to go the direct route, via Sianfu; but, crossing the Wei river, Chen's troops opened fire on them, preventing the crossing—which attempt cost Hsu about a battalion of soldiers and not a small number of horses.

After a good deal of deliberation over this matter, it was again decided that Hsu should continue on his way to "the North" via the route agreed upon before.

A BIG ARMY

But Hsu's troops were numerous—some 16,000 or more, it is said, having been swelled by at least 3,000 Shensi robbers—so, when the first lot had reached Kuan-in-tang (the railway terminus in the northwest of Honan), the rear was still not far beyond Sianfu; and this in spite of the fact that Hsu's general Ko Chien, with his 5,000 to 6,000 followers, decided at the last moment to remain in the Fenghsiangfu district, to the west of Sian and not obey his master's order.

Then suddenly an order came that the troops, that already had passed Tungkuan into Honan, should return. Upon their return to Tungkuan they occupied the fort there, commanding the main entrance from both Shensi and Honan, and ordered Chen's garrison to leave speedily.

Then Hsu spread proclamations to the effect that he had received orders to occupy Tungkuan, Chao-I and other cities on the eastern side of the province, as well as Shanhongfu in the southwest, and even the western part of the province bordering on Kansu.

CHEN GETS ANXIOUS

Then suddenly Tuchun Chen became very anxious; as he, before suspecting it, found himself entrapped. In the west, he had his bitterest enemy, Ko Chien; to the east he found his only way of supply being cut off; to the north, and only some 50-70 li from the capital, he had Yu Yu-ren, the Tuchun of the south and marshal of their forces in Shensi and in the southwest he had his general, Kang, who never had been very loyal to him, as he was a personal friend and general in the army of the former Tuchun, whom Chen drove out of the province. For a long time Chen has suspected that Kang was in allegiance with Hsu Lan-chow.

THEN CHEN STARTED

Indeed, he found that Hsu had played a big game, and played it well, too. And then Chen started to play his. To try his general Kang in the southwest, Tuchun Chen sent him a telegram in Hsu Lan-chow's name ordering Kang to rush a few battalions to Fenghsiangfu, to occupy Ko Chien's place as Ko was ordered to march on Sianfu.

In a few days the first battalion was at the gate of Fenghsiang, wanting to get in. The Ko and Kang men became alike astonished, as Ko did not know of any order to march on Sianfu. But he asked Kang's troops to rest quietly in the west suburb, until he had sent a telegram to Tungkuan, asking Hsu to explain.

HSU KNEW NOTHING

As Hsu answered the same day, that he knew nothing about the movement of Kang's troops, Ko began to suspect all his friends. Still he send word to the major in the west suburb, that he was marching out of the city by the east gate that night, and the next morning Kang's troops could march in and occupy it.

At daybreak the next day the west gate was opened. Kang's men—fine, well-trained and well-equipped—marched joyfully in and entered Ko Chien's headquarters. Then of a sudden Ko's men surrounded them and "killed every one of them," so the sad, but trustworthy story goes.

KANG RUSHED TROOPS

When General Kang received news about this tragedy he telegraphed Hsu to assist him and rushed all his troops to Fenghsiang to attack Ko. But Ko had received help and lay in wait for him, and slowly scattered his rabble army, taking several cartloads of ammunition, four big guns, machine guns and rifles by thousands.

Even as late as June 22 officers of Hsu's army in Kuang-in-tang told me they had not had word that Kang had been able to gather even any fragments of his army, and that Ko continued to pursue and kill what fragments he could find of Kang's troops.

Thus Chen played well, causing his enemies to destroy his enemies.

TROOPS AT RIVER

While this took place, Hsu's troops were trying to cross the Wei river in the east on their march on Tungcheofu and Chao I, but Chen's men opposed them.

All the same, the Tsing Kueh-chun in Cheng-hsien, Puching and Peh-shui had gathered and rushed their men over the border line into Hsien's on the eastern border and had, as it were, almost surrounded Hoyang-hsien.

They looted the villages and kidnapped scores of innocent people, male and female, including six Christians from an out-station belonging to the Swedish Mission, who were forced out of the very Chapel itself, where they had taken shelter.

However Chen's troops fought well, and before the end of the first week in June they had driven the Tsing Kueh-chun back within their own border lines.

HSU'S TROOPS STOP

Simultaneously, Hsu's troops stopped their march to the northeast and drew back to the main road between Sian and Tungkuan, where they are resting temporarily.

This was the condition when the writer left the province.

In Kuan In-tang, while passing there, one of Hsu's officers told me that the great general himself, in company with one of his sub-generals, had just gone to Peking to consult their chief, Chang Tso-ling and others, and were not expected back before the end of the month.

QUERIED OFFICER

I took the opportunity of putting several questions to the friendly officer.

"Does your General believe that Ko Chien will be faithful to him?"

"No, I think he has lost faith in him by this time."

"What will Ko Chien do now, since he has been crushing General Kang's army?"

"I think he will lay as much as he can of the province under himself; and as long as he lives there will be trouble in Shensi."

"What do you think your general will do with Ko Chien and with Chen upon his return?"

"Well," he answered, somewhat reluctantly, and smiling, "we may be ordered to fight either or both, or we may be ordered back to Fengtien, or we may be ordered to go as far east as Chengchow for a time. Nothing can be more uncertain, than the movements of the fighting strength in China these days.

"However, we cannot stay where we are, so there is sure to be a move in some direction upon the General's return."

"Would your soldiers be willing to fight Chen?" I continued.

"I think they would be delighted," he answered decidedly.

WHOLE PROVINCE WILD

No wonder that the whole province is in a state of suspense, and every intelligent person you meet there says that "great trouble is ahead of us." For this reason thousands of well to do people seek refuge in other provinces.

And after all, would not a real decisive war in Shensi be far better than the present condition. These unprincipled youngsters, who now by thousands and thousands swell the robber armies would then learn that to be a soldier means to give their lives, and not to roam about in houses, beating and killing and doing whatever they please with the inmates, males or females, and carrying away whatever articles they can lay their hands on.

I am sure, then, that these big armies would soon become small, and the law-abiding citizens would regain their hope of living and dying in peace.

Chinese Recorder For July

The Chinese Recorder, Vol. LI, July, 1920. Published monthly by the American Presbyterian Mission Press has just been issued.

The general title for this number is given as "Chinese Psychology as affected by Christianity and Modern Movement." The justice of this title is vindicated by the fact that of seven principal articles, four are by Chinese writers who show very distinctly their reactions to the present situation in the world and in the Chinese church; while the other three are also closely allied to the general topic in spirit and treatment.

Buddhism and the present Buddhist revival receive much deserved attention. Mr. Francis C. M. Wei concludes his interesting study of the doctrine of salvation by faith as taught by the Pure Land sect, reaching the conclusion that mutual borrowing between this sect and Christianity cannot be shown to be even probable, either historically or doctrinally.

REICHELT ARTICLE

Perhaps the most interesting article in the whole number is the one by Mr. K. L. Reichelt, in which he relates the experience which has led him to devote his whole time to work among Buddhist priests and lay devotees, and describes the plans that he has made for carrying on the work. The frontispiece of the number reproduces a drawing of the proposed "Christian Institute for Work among Buddhist Monks and Lay Devotees." Recent investigations have set the number of these in the neighborhood of a million, and if the revival of their work which is described on the editorial pages should proceed, the Christian movement in China would have much cause to congratulate itself that a far-sighted and devoted missionary had arisen in time to deal with the problem.

MR. CHEN'S ARTICLE

Of almost equal interest is the article by Mr. Chen Tu-seu, translated by Dr. Y. T. Tsu. Here is a returned student, a member of the Peking University Band that is leading the literary revolution of the present day, writing on the relation of Christianity to the Chinese people, and coming to the conclusion that Christianity is Christ, and describing the character of the Man of Nazareth in terms of warm appreciation. Such words from a man not himself a Christian are deeply significant. No one who has the least interest in the progress of Christianity as a world-religion should fail to read and ponder the article. It marks a distinct epoch in the progress of mission work in China.

"MODEL GOVERNOR"

A description of the work and the personality of the "model governor," Yen Shi-shan, of Shansi, by F. C. H. Dreyer, recalls us to a topic that was treated some months since; here we have more detail and more intimate information. Again the work of Christian missions has had its effect, and while the reforms of the governor cannot be called distinctly Christian, they would hardly have been possible in their present form and with their acknowledged effectiveness without the previous work of Christian missions.

The constructive criticism of Mr. Hsu Pao-ch'ien, with its straightforward impersonal manner, will provoke much thought and searching of the heart. Mr. C. T. Chu presents an analysis of the work of "The Up-building of the Church," many items of which are fresh and new in treatment. "Pioneer 'Y' Work for the Chinese Army" in Siberia is vividly described by Richard H. Ritter.

above all things are Health and Happiness. These are the true Woman's Rights! Every woman is entitled to them. Dame Nature intended her daughters to be healthy in body and happy in mind. Any woman conscious of pain and trouble which she feels might be removed will be well advised to make careful enquiry as to the cause. If it is found—as indeed is frequently the case—that a disordered digestion is giving rise to ill-health and the consequent depression of spirits, medicine of the right sort will doubtless soon set matters right. But it must be of the right sort. Beecham's Pills are to be strongly recommended for woman's needs. They may be taken with perfect confidence for derangements of the digestive organs, including such unpleasant ailments as sick-headache, biliousness, flatulence, constipation and the inestimable and worries often incidental to her sex. Szechuen Province Again In Grim Toils Of Warfare; Robbery And Piracy Rage

(China Press Correspondence)

Chentu, June 21.—We are again in the thick of fighting throughout Szechuen province. The situation is so chaotic that it is difficult to give an authentic and trustworthy report.

In order to understand things at all, it must be remembered that the Kweichow and Yunnanese troops have garrisoned large sections of the province for the last three years, including the wealthy salt-well district of Tze-liu-tsing with its river port, Lucheo, also Chungking city and all east of there on the Yangtsze as far as the Hunan border of the province.

The latter districts—those under the control of Kweichow—have been very badly governed, robbery and piracy being rife and some places always impassable.

PRESENT GOVERNOR

The present military governor, Hsiung Kehwu, is a southern nominee—a well-known adventurer who has, in the past, changed sides several times with great facility. When in command of southern troops, two year's ago, he drove out the former governor, Liu Tsen-hou, and has been in control since.

Liu fled to the north and has been watching for an opportunity to return.

Hsiung, contrary to everyone's expectations, has proved a good governor. He is well liked by the common people and his soldiers seem to admire him and follow him with confidence: Chentu, the capital city, and the surrounding country which has been under his immediate control, have been peaceful and prosperous, with little or no armed robbery—in happy contrast to most of the rest of the province.

WHEN RUMORS BEGAN

Rumors of trouble began about two months ago. Later, the civil governor and the provincial treasurer secretly fled from the city. Everyone was sure there would be fighting, but nobody knew why or with whom. As in Biblical times, "After the year was expired came the time when the kings go forth to battle."

At a meeting of the influential gentry, Hsiung offered to resign his position to whoever should be chosen, rather than cause fighting and consequent suffering to the common people.

How sincere this offer was, no one knows; but Hsiung was prevailed upon to keep his position and begin fighting.

TROOPS IN REVOLT

Two divisions of the Szechuen army had revolted against Hsiung's authority—the Fifth and Sixth Divisions, under Generals Lu and Shih—and the first move was to try to bring them into submission.

In many quarters it was believed that this revolt was only a bluff—that the real movement was to be against the southern troops—and that these two generals would rejoin Hsiung when they had served their purpose as an excuse for moving troops.

It is certain that Hsiung and Lu had a secret conference late at night in a wayside inn; but fighting has been in progress for six weeks and while, in one portion of the province, the Szechuen troops are fighting the troops of the Southern provinces with but little success, in another portion they are wasting their strength by killing each other.

YUNNANESE RETREAT

The Yunnanese have retreated from the salt-wells at Tze-liu-tsing, whence they drew most of their revenue; but they are holding the river port, Lucheo, and will try to get back when reinforcements arrive.

The Kweichow men still hold Chungking and there the Szechuanese have been driven back to Hochco, two days up the Kialing river. This city has changed hands three times.

So far the fighting seems to have been kept outside Chungking city, though the people there have been terrified. The Kweichow men threaten if they are driven out to devastate the city, "leaving only a bare spot."

They have removed all the fire-fighting apparatus and are also carrying off the machinery from the Mint to Kweichow.

SUINING SUFFERING

Suining, a large city several days further up the Kialing river from Chungking, has suffered grievously from fighting, looting and fire. There the fighting is between opposing divisions of Szechuen troops; and the men complain that, while they are keen to drive out the Southerners, they do not want to kill their own brothers.

Kiangnan and Yohchi are reported to have been looted twice Kuangan has changed hands nine times. Many other places might be mentioned, but these are enough to show the condition of affairs.

In the meantime the brigands and pirates go merrily on their way, robbing all and sundry by road and river. A personal letter from a foreign friend reports that at a large salt market near Wanhsien, the Southern troops stationed there revolted in a body and joined the brigands.

ROBBERIES NUMEROUS

The robberies of both Chinese and foreigners are so numerous that they scarcely cause remark except in some particularly outrageous case.

Letter mail is coming through surprisingly well, considering the situation. It is fairly regular, but four thousand bags of heavy mail is held up at Chungking unable to proceed.

PEOPLE APATHETIC

One of the most curious features of the whole affair is the apathetic attitude of the mass of the people. The man on the street seems quite indifferent as to which side wins, or if any side does. They are terribly afraid of fighting, looting and fire in the cities, having been taught by terrible past experience; but they are equally afraid of either side. They appear to have no patriotic feeling in the matter, and no decided sympathies. They also have very little hope of settled peace. As this fighting, from one cause or another, has occurred practically every year since the revolution, their attitude can easily be understood.

CHOLERA RAMPANT

In addition to all this, the province is suffering from a serious cholera epidemic, the first for twenty years.

In Chungking the daily death rate was estimated at one hundred and fifty for some weeks. Conditions there have improved, and the last report is about fifty daily.

In different cities throughout the province the mortality is heavy.

Chentu has only a few cases. The superintendent of police, a man who has been abroad, has taken most energetic preventive measures in co-operation with the foreign doctors, and has greatly mitigated the danger.

Carol Of Rumania Expresses Gratitude

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 5.—Prince Carol of Rumania expresses himself as most gratified with the reception of the Rumanian mission by the Imperial Court, officials and merchants.

At a dinner given in his honor on Saturday evening, by the leading bankers and business men here, the Prince, replying to a toast, appealed to the Japanese to aid in reviving the wealth of his country, devastated by war.

Interviewed by the press, members of the mission stated that they were well satisfied with the progress made in the preliminary conversations. Rumania's greatest need, they declared, was ships to export her wealth of corn, oil and timber.

The mission expressed their gratitude for the loan of transports to bring their troops from Vladivostok. They were delighted at the cordial reception which had been accorded to the Prince in Egypt, India, Singapore and Hongkong.

Prince Carol will leave Japan for America on July 27.

BAPTIST WOMEN GIVE $21,834,000

Washington, May 22.—While the Baptist women of the South were asked for only $15,000,000, or one-fifth of the total sum sought in the Baptist $75,000,000 campaign, they responded with subscriptions of $21,834,000, according to the annual report of the activities of the Woman's Missionary Union made to the Southern Baptist Convention by Miss Kathleen Mallory of Baltimore, Corresponding Secretary.

During the campaign 2,300 girls and young women volunteered to give their whole time to special Christian service, 1,900 new missionary societies among the women and young people were organised, 8,400,000 pages of tracts and other literature were distributed in behalf of the campaign, 79,000 letters were sent out and over 33,000 miles were traveled in the interest of the drive by two of the Woman's Missionary Union workers.

A total of 3,200 new organisations were formed by Baptist women during the last year and over 3,400 mission study classes were conducted.

HOME FOLKS FOR JOHN W. DAVIS

Republican Terms Him 'Highest Type Of Man' And An 'Ideal Candidate'

ALL PRAISE HIS MENTALITY

His Sincerity And True Democracy Would Win Labor, Says Worker

Clarksburg, W. Va., May 20.—Naturally Clarksburg is intensely proud of the suggestion by The New York Times that John W. Davis, now Ambassador to Great Britain, be named as the Democratic nominee for President. Mr. Davis was born here and lived here virtually all his life until he went to Washington as Solicitor General.

But the most remarkable aspect of the pride displayed in Mr. Davis is the evident ring of sincerity voiced by Republicans as well as Democrats. Every effort is made to stress the idea that Clarksburg is not proud of Mr. Davis merely because he was born here, but because he is the man that he is.

There seems little doubt that many West Virginia Republicans would vote for him if he were nominated on the Democratic ticket. Many other Republicans say that this would be impossible on account of their political affiliations, but, nevertheless; they would rather see him receive the honor than any other Democrat.

Twelve men of different political view were seen today by The Times correspondent, and careful inquiry was made of each to ascertain if there was any underlying opposition to Mr. Davis or criticism of him.

The only criticism whatever came from Republicans and was confined to the fact that Mr. Davis happened to be a Democrat. Not one Republican seen today had anything else to say of Mr. Davis except praise for his manliness, personality and mental strength.

For instance Virgil L. Highland, Republican National Committeeman from this State, said:

'NO HIGHER TYPE OF MAN'

"No higher type of man lives than Mr. Davis. I don't mean that as a Republican I would vote for him. But I would rather see him President than any Democrat I know of. He would go into the race without the charge of waste and extravagance during the war against him of which will be laid against others, including McAdoo. I think John W. Davis would be an ideal candidate and a vote getter. His strong personality would help him tremendously. If Wilson keeps on with his obduracy, I don't think there's much chance for any Democrat. But I would like to see Davis nominated. I have known him all my life, ever since he was a boy. And he was regular boy, too. I've had the boxing gloves on with him many a time."

Olandus West, a Democrat and a real estate gas and oil man, who has known the Ambassador many years, said of him:

"He is one of the finest and most lovable men on earth. His simplicity is what appeals to me. Any ordinary man can walk up to him and receive the same greeting as a King would receive. He is not a politician, he is essentially a gr democrat. I mean a democrat with a little 'd.' He did not want to go into politics. It was with the greatest difficulty we persuaded him to run for the Legislature. He told me, 'No, Olandus, not if I can prevent it.' But he won overwhelmingly here in a Republican stronghold after Republicans had gone to the Legislature from this district for twenty years.

"I have always believed he could go higher. Once I said to him, 'John, if I had your brains and ability, I wouldn't care if I hadn't a dollar in the world.' His father did not want him to go into politics and wished him always to continue as a lawyer. He has gone into politics, but as I say he has never become a professional politician."

Mr. West, who has been interested with the Ambassador in several business enterprises, spoke of him as a business man, saying:

"He is quick to grasp business problems. He's no lawyer who does not know anything but law. He's an all-round man, and one thing I admire about him is that he is always willing to see the other side of a question." This business side of Mr. Davis was dwelt upon also by P. H. Kobelgard, a glass manufacturer and business man.

He said Mr. Davis was the most "level-headed" man he had ever known.

"I would trust that man with anything in the world," continued Mr. Koblegard. "I'm not of his political faith. I'm a Republican, but I do not know a better or a finer man in the United States. I have known him for more than ten years, and he can be counted on in any question or emergency to do the right and proper thing.

"Here in this town we may say too much about him, but it's not because he's our townsman. He's a big man, a real big one. Here in this Republican stronghold he can get anything he wants. The Congressional nomination was forced upon him, but we all wanted him, Republicans and Democrats alike."

Still another Republican, Judge Raymond Maxwell of the Circuit Court, who was sitting today in Clarksburg, said of Mr. Davis:

"Folks down here, regardless of politics, would like to see John Davis the Democratic nominee. Mr. Davis's friends here are his home folks, and they feel he is worthy in every way of the mention he is receiving. They feel that way because they know him. I have known him since boyhood; I don't know when I did not know him, and I love him and honor him. His father, John J. Davis, and mine were friends for a half a century. Many Republicans would vote for him; others would like to but will be bound by party lines.'

OUTLINES HIS HUMAN SIDE

The human side of Mr. Davis was outlined by George L. Duncan, a Democrat, and Treasurer of the Lowndes Savings Bank.

"John is a year younger than I; we used to drive cows together," said Mr. Duncan; "our intimacy kept up through manhood. His mother's home was the center of culture and intellect in this community. She gave John his first teaching until he went away to Bantop's Academy in the valley. Later, I was associated with him in business, I used to love to go to his house to visit his mother and his sisters. I'll tell you the kind of fellow John is. You know, while he is in London, I wouldn't bother him with letters, but, without a word from me, he remembered my birthday last year, and wrote me.

"He is perfectly affectionate and perfectly unassuming. I don't mean by unassuming that he is negative. One day he came into the bank and said to me. 'Come out here with me.' I went out and he walked across the street and proceeded to whip a man who had said something derogatory of his father.

"His father had represented this district in Congress for two terms during the seventies and he did not want John to go into politics, but to be a lawyer. But we persuaded John to go, and he won after fifteen or twenty years of Republican representation. In one of the races the Republican nominee, R. T. Lowndes, now dead, was a great friend of his. They were always good friends, even during the race. John Davis is a big-hearted man, who would do anything for his friends."

One of the leading business men of Clarksburg, F. C. Gaylord of the Hornor-Gaylord Company, said:

"In a nutshell, John Davis is one of the finest men and finest Democrats in the United States. I mean he's a real democratic man. He's the same today and tomorrow. Every one that meets him is impressed by the fact that he is an American citizen in every sense of the word, and from top to bottom. Everybody likes him and honors him, he has such a compelling personality. I'll tell you how it is. When I go to manufacturers' conventions there are always some fellows there that attract me. I like to be around them. John Davis is that kind of a man."

WOULD MEASURE UP

John L. Ruhl, who is the oldest business man in Clarksburg, said:

"I have known him since he was a baby, I am a Republican, but I voted for him twice. He has a fine mind and a fine personality. He would measure up to the Presidential office, and I prefer him to any one on the Democratic side. I don't know that I would have time to tell you all I think of John Davis."

Democrats in West Virginia are enthusiastic over the fact that Mr. Davis has been put forward and are trying to do all they can to have him nominated. C. L. Shaver, Chairman of the Democratic State Executive Committee, called up on the telephone from Fairmont to tell The Times correspondent of Mr. Davis's ability as a campaigner.

"He is wonderful. "Way back in the counties they love to hear him just as they do in the cities," said Mr. Shaver. "They all understand him and he does not have to change his style to meet anybody's needs. I have talked to Republicans and Democrats from many places in this State and other parts of the United States, and his name never fails to make a deep impression."

C. E. Weymouth, editor of The West Virginia Labor News, does not think Mr. Davis would get the labor vote in this State.

"Organised labor is normally Republican in West Virginia," he said. "Personally I don't think that West Virginia can nominate a man for the Presidency. Mr. Davis is an honest, straightforward man and the people here admire him intensely."

Denial that labor would not be back of Mr. Davis was made by Stephen G. Jackson, an attorney, who is President of the local John W. Davis Club.

"One thing that impresses me is that he can get equal support from labor and capital, the two extremes in this State," declared Mr. Jackson. Lots of Republicans have told me if John was nominated they would not only vote for him, but would support him financially. Everybody around here loves him. I don't know any man who can convince the people that he is so sincere, no matter what side of a question he is on.

THREE DAVIS ENTHUSIASTS

Three of the strongest Davis enthusiasts in Clarksburg are Bryan Templeman, the Ambassador's former law partner; F. G. Smith, an attorney, who was in the office of Mr. Davis's father, and who is one of the leading lawyers of West Virginia, and Judge Jam W. Robinson of the Criminal Court.

"The only possible reason that people here could not think of John as President of the United States, is that they know they can go up to him, and say, Hello, John. He is so wonderfully simple and so unaffected, and so lovable and fine," said Mr. Templeman. "The only objection I have heard Republicans make about him is that he is a Democrat."

Active work to place Mr. Davis in nomination at San Francisco is under way and rooms have been reserved in that city as headquarters.

Joe N. Craddock, Mayor of Clarksburg, a Democrat, but who was elected by the labor vote, he being an active member of the Clarksburg Typographical Union, is one of the strong supporters of Ambassador Davis. He said today:

"I take particular pride in giving hearty indorsement to the campaign in behalf of Mr. Davis. Knowing his eminent qualities, I am glad to say that I believe Clarksburg people consider him the logical and the strongest man the Democratic Party can name.

"I am one of the great mass of common people, and owe my office to their vote, and I feel that the workers could have no greater friend in the Presidential chair than Ambassador Davis. His record in public office has been extremely favorable to the workers, and he could be depended upon to stand for fair treatment in their behalf."

NOTICE

The undersigned, Own Chinkee (歐金卓), original name Ka Chinkee (賀金卓), hereby declares that by desire of his late father, he was adopted when a small boy into the Own family on his mother's side and was brought up by the Own family as their son. Subsequently, owing to the death of his father and out of filial consideration for his mother he still used his original name of Ka Chinkee. However, this was against the will and desire of his late father and much regretted by the Own family. Furthermore, the children in the Ka family have greatly increased, whilst the thirteen branches of the Own family are without sons. Hence a meeting of the family elders was held during the former Ching dynasty according to the usual Chinese custom, and his mother consented that he, Ka Chinkee (as the second son) should be adopted into the Own family, and that thereafter he should entirely sever his connection with the Ka family. As some years have elapsed and the matter may not be generally known, it is now desired to put the above facts on record and all friends, relatives and the general public are requested to take note accordingly.

Second Announcement

The fact that this Administration has carried out the instructions of the Ministry of Communications and the terms of the agreement entered into by the Yu Fong S.S. Co. with the Ministry of Communications that the management of the "Hwah" line of steamers was to be transferred to the said Company has been already advertised in the local papers.

Adverting to the statement published today in the Chinese newspapers by the Yu Fong s.s. Co. to the effect that Accounts incurred in 1917 and 1918 have also been handed over to them, we must point out that the said Accounts consist of statements of accounts with vouchers for money received from the American Shipping Board on account of the s.s. "Hwah Jah" etc.

These accounts and vouchers were handed over to them for reference in order to enable them to deal with the American Shipping Board and to make up final report to the Ministry of Communications.

It is surprising to note that the Yu Fong S.S. Co. has inadvertently taken the matter to be a request for payment of old outstanding debts.

We hold receipt from the Yu Fong S.S. Co. for all documents regarding the transfer and the management of the "Hwah" line of steamers. These documents have never been taken back by us.

The Yu Fong S.S. Co. commencing from the 1st day of July, 1920, is therefore responsible for the management and accounts of the "Hwah" line of steamers.

Besides wiring the above facts to the Ministry of Communications, the public is hereby again notified.

NOTICE

Referring to the fact that this Company has been instructed by the Ministry of Communications to take charge of the expenses connected with the personnel, repairs, and insurance of the "Hwah" line of steamers, this Company is unable to assume charge of the above mentioned matters as previously announced, because the Chinese Government Steamship Administration has not acted in accordance with the terms of the agreement entered into and the orders of the said Ministry. Consequently we returned all transferred documents to the said Administration on the 30th of June, 1920. These documents have been refused acceptance by Commisioner Sah of the said Administration.

Inasmuch as this appointment to take over charge of matters aforesaid was received directly from the Ministry of Communications, this Company does not recognise any third party having authority in this; and has accordingly reported the case to the said Ministry for instructions before further action. We therefore beg to announce to the public once again that meanwhile this Company will bear no responsibility whatever for expenses relating to the aforesaid personnel, repairs, and insurance of the above mentioned vessels.

Sold 1,031,154 lbs. (about 460 tons).

The auctions opened well this week with a fairly keen demand for most grades and several speculators competing for Standard Qualities. Before long, however, news of a slight falling off in the London market caused several buyers to drop out of the bidding, and the market weakened in consequence.

Standard Sheet found a number of buyers and realised up to 81½ cents at the commencement, three lots changing hands at 82, showing an advance of 2½ cents on the week. These prices were not maintained, however, the market dropping to 80 cents before the close of the day.

Competition was very keen for Thin Clean Brown Crepe on account of the small quantity on offer, this grade realising up to 68½ cents. The lower grades of Crepe show an average increase of about 1 cent on the week.

At the continuation this morning, Off Grades were only in poor demand, but Standard Qualities realised up to 82 cents on account of several "bears" wishing to cover short sales for June.

Co-Eds Resent Advice On Choice Of Attire

"What Business Is It Of The Professors How Much We Spend?"

Lincoln, Neb., May 15.—Coeds at the Nebraska College of Agriculture, operated in connection with the State University, will not be popular with their instructors if they persist in wearing silk underwear, petticoats and hose, expensive earrings and hair ornaments, fancy shoes, transparent blouses, fancy sweaters, jewelry and beads.

In a circular the college authorities savagely criticise the tendency of the girl of college years to expend large sums in dress and ornaments, and declare that sane thrift is lacking on every side. The circular quotes suggestions offered by students in the clothing department of the university regarding choice of materials, how to buy, how to make over garments, what kind of shoes wear best and how to avoid extravagance in dress.

Several of the sorority girls have asked in the university paper what business it is of the university professors how much they spend. One young woman complacently confesses ownership of thirteen coats, two of them of leather, and says she is in the market for any summer styles.

Admiral Borret's Signal

BY this time, no doubt, the remark of the British Admiral commanding in the Yangtsze Valley to the American Navy Captain about to effect a landing in order to investigate the murder of an American missionary at Yochow has been telegraphed around the world, as it well deserved to be.

When Admiral Borret said to Captain Kearney: "If you are attacked I will come to your assistance with every man and every gun I have," he did not merely utter a sentiment appropriate to the occasion and likely to become historically famous. He gave concrete expression to something fundamental in the Anglo-Saxon breast, to some deep stirring call of like to like across the world that, no matter the surface differences, requires only the sounding of the tocsin to flash the knowledge of common danger.

It was no light task unfraught with peril that Captain Kearney was undertaking. He was about to land a small body of sailors and marines in a strange city filled with thousands of disorganised, undisciplined Chinese soldiers who were fully armed and who realised that some among them were wanted for the murder of the missionary. It was a dangerous but necessary proceeding. The British could not land with him—"But if you are attached I will come to your assistance with every man and every gun I have."

What our American commander on this station, Admiral Cleaves, thought of it has been sufficiently indicated by his speech at the American Club's Fourth of July celebration, where the sentiment was greeted with cheers that in comparison make those of the Democratic Convention at San Francisco sound hollow. What Captain Kearney thought of it is unrecorded, but away out there in the middle of China it must have made the whole world look rosy and serene to him and to his men.

"If you are attacked—" One recalls the trying experiences of the Boxer period, and just prior to that the incident in Manila Bay where, when the German Admiral tried to make trouble for Dewey, the British commander sent much the same word. It is not only a good text for a sermon and a good line for a war memorial. It is something to keep in mind from day to day, something to be guided by in the daily intercourse, something stable and real to be counted on in unstable and unreal times.

Dear Domino: What in the world is the meaning of that picture at the head of your space? It struck me right away as meaning something, and when I got to thinking about it, almost immediately I thought I had solved it. Yet on second thought, I am in doubt and would greatly appreciate your clearing things up for me. Although I must admit it seems silly to ask when the drawing itself is so clear.

DOG DAYS.

I was quite clear about it at first but meditation as a rule confuses me although I still have a theory left. What's yours?

* * *

Blood is thicker even than local water. Blood is so thick that it carries millions of men over the heaving billows of the Atlantic—heavings, how they do heave!—to face the rain, the cold and the mud of the now silent battlefield. It is so thick that it makes a British admiral send his chin chins to his American cousin Kearney in "To the last man and gun" rythm.

Long years ago in Shakespeare's time
Old England had a daughter,
Who settled in a Western Clime
When we thought she hadn't oughter.

Response is quick—and soon 'tis seen
The U.S.A.'s no stranger.

Governor Allen declared that he had no quarrel with union labor. He said that every employe of his publishing establishment—he is editor and owner of The Wichita Daily Beacon—was a union member. He said he had heard a great deal of talk of "brotherhood." "When they talk of brotherhood," he said, "I have this memory with me, gathered at Pittsburg:

"While we were mining there, there came this incident out of the hospital, a beautiful hospital, builded out of the pride of the community through public subscription. It was filled with sick people; it was 'flue' weather; more than half of the population were union miners, and one day there came to me two men who had been mining a small shaft to provide coal for the hospital, and they said: 'Governor, you will have to give us some coal.' I said, 'Why?' They said, 'We have been warned not to produce any more coal.' I said, 'Surely, your leaders would not be so mean as to deprive the hospital of fuel at a time like this.' They said, 'We have been warned to produce no more coal.' And so I went out to a mine near the city, where a group of Kansas University men were mining coal, and got them to mine some coal for the Pittsburg hospital, and then two days later these same lads came to me and said, Governor, can you haul the coal to us?' I said 'Why?' They said, 'The truckmen have gone on sympathetic strike.' So I had to mine their coal and haul it to them, or else there would have been death in that hospital. Ah, friends, surely government may do better than that for poor people.

STORY OF A MINER'S WIFE

"A woman came to me from Weir City bearing all the marks of poverty which linger on a life, and she said, 'I have come to tell you my troubles.' I said, 'What are your troubles?' She said: 'My husband has been out on this strike of the Central Coal & Coke Company for six months. He doesn't even know what the strike is about. He would like to go back to work. We have been living for six months on strike benefits. We have been trying to pay for a little home at Weir. We are hard up, and yesterday, when your miners came to the Italiana Mine, I went down there to see if I couldn't get some work from those boys, some mending and some washing and I brought home quite a lot of it.' I said, 'I am glad you did.'

"And she said, 'Ah, but last night a committee from my husband's own union came to me and told me that I was not to attempt to do that work, and I was not to go back to that mine?' I said, 'Go on, go on, they will not molest you, they will not molest you.' She said, 'I don't think they would while you are here, but when you go away I think they would burn my house.' Ah! surely, surely, government may foster a better spirit of brotherhood than that.

"And then we called a session of the Kansas Legislature to pass a law which would prevent in the future the recurrence of a thing as dangerous to the public as a fuel famine. And the Legislature met. Almost everybody who belonged to any union came or got in touch with the speaker. There was again the contest between the conservative union labor man and the radical. Oh surely I do not need to explain that contest. There is not a union labor man here that is not acquainted with it. There is not a great leader of labor here that has not had to fight on account of it. And so the radicals wanted to make their protest against the law emphatic and dramatic; they wanted to bring 50,000 laborers to Topeka and march seven times around the Capitol building. The conservatives said they better do it by committees, and so the committees came. They were there representing union labor and organised labor.

"Union labor said, 'This law is involuntary servitude. Capital said, 'This law is State Socialism.' The capitalists were more cunning, of course. The union labor men came frankly and said, 'We won't have it, we won't have it and that is the end of it.' They used the same language that President Gompers used in New Jersey not long ago. 'If you take away the right to strike we will find some other way.' And before the debate ceases tonight I implore Mr. Gompers in behalf of the country that is waiting to know what other way he has in mind. Now, the law was passed after full discussion. As I say, the laborers said they did not want it. The capitalists were a little more reasonable. They said, 'This is a great law, this is the greatest movement forward since the days of Adam.'

LAW WITH TEETH

"But the law should be changed in this respect and in this respect and in this respect. The capitalists wanted the law with the teeth all located on the lower jaw (laughter). I am glad to tell you that when the law was finally framed it had the teeth located on the upper jaw and on the lower jaw. And when it was passed, only four men in the Senate voted against it, only seven men in the House voted against it. It became a law with almost unanimous approval."

Governor Allen said that the history of labor legislation in Kansas showed that the first labor law, passed in 1871, was one forbidding an engineer of a railroad train the right to strike between stations. He said an arbitration law had been passed with the usual result that, a fight or a compromise would follow with no consideration of the public.

Governor Allen said that labor leaders in Kansas contended that in forbidding the strike the State had taken away labor's best weapon. He contended that it had given labor in every honorable controversy the more reliable weapon of the State Government. He said that during three years in Kansas there were 407 separate strikes, which meant in monetary victories to the strikers just $870.54. These strikes cost the miners, he said, $3,700,000 in less of wages and last year alone $157,000 to maintain their strike bureau. "Surely" Governor Allen continued, "just government may do better than this."

"Society in Kansas," he continued, "is stratified according to the following percentages: At the top, possibly 2½ percent of employing capital, an organisation builded for war, having no soul, concerned with profits. At the bottom 5½ percent representing organised labor, builded to meet the war machine. In the center is 92 percent representing us, a good-natured, protoplasmic mass, having no power save the good-natured power of passive resistance.

"And now we are criticised because we say in behalf of these, the submerged nine-tenths, that they shall have protection.

"My friends, the Kansas law does not do away with collective bargaining. It gives to miners the right, organised or unorganised, and it protects the sanctity of their contract. It says to the operators, 'you shall not close down your plant for any purpose to effect a wage controversy or to effect the price of your commodity to the public.' That is what it says to the operater, 'There shall be reasonable continuity of your institution.' That means that the miners will will be able to work during summertime, will build a re- be able to mork during the Winter in Kansas hereafter with a reserve instead of a fuel famine.

'OLD LAW IN WORLD'

"It says to the miners, not 'You shall not quit work,' but 'You shall not conspire for the purpose of closing down the operation of this industry, whose product is necessary to the welfare of the people.' That is the oldest law in the world; that law was written as one of the twelve laws upon the Roman tablets. Salus populi suprema lex—the safety of the public is the supreme law, and you may build around it all the phraseology that belongs to the history of the labor movement, but you will not be able to wipe out that fundamental fact, and any time in the history of this country when the general public arises to say, 'We have had enough of this' it is over."

Governor Allen said that within the last three days Mr. Gompers had issued a ukase, bidding all union men to support his political program of "rewarding" friends and "defeating" enemies. "He has called upon all members of organised labor to assemble themselves around the political effort to see that no man goes to Congress who does not favor his program," he said.

"Do we want that? Do we want a shackled, bridled Congress? Ah, let me tell you: The political party in the forthcoming campaign that has not the constructive ccurage to stand out and pledge to the public protection against the wrongs of industrial warfare will travel down the pathway of cowardice to defeat."

Governor Allen declared that not all leaders of organised labor were opposed to the Industrial Court, and read the opinions of a dozen whom he quoted as being in favor of giving it a fair trail.

"I want to show you the spirit of the Kansas Court," he said. "A living wage had been asked for. The Judge declined to make use of the word 'a living wage.' He said a living wage is a wage sufficient to meet the cost of living, and 'therefore we have decided in this case that which we believe to be a fair and just wage.' What is it? Sufficient to meet the cost of living, and in addition thereto, sufficient to provide a man through reasonable frugality with enough for the education of his family and the preparation of his life against old age."

QUOTES PRESIDENT WILSON

In conclusion of his opening speech, Governor Allen quoted the message of President Wilson at the time Congress was considering the Adamson law, increasing the wages of the railroad employes, just before its passage. The President then stated that "If we are true champions of arbitration we should make all awards and judgments by record of a court of law in order that their interpretation and enforcement might not lay with one of the parties in arbitration but with an impartial and authoritative tribunal."

"The President was appealing for the passage of law exactly in compliance with the principles upon which we have written the Kansas law of industrial relations," Governor Allen declared.

In his first reply to Governor Allen Mr. Gompers denied that he ever had called a strike in his life and asserted that the passage of the Industrial Court law was caused by the obsession of Governor Allen concerning the miners' leader, Howat.

"The Governor says he wants to take away from me the divine right of ordering strikes," said Mr. Gompers. "It may be interesting to the Governor to know that I never have ordered a strike, and I challenge him or anybody else to assert the contrary."

"Who orders strikes?" called a voice.

"Go home and find out; take your special train back to Kansas," retorted Mr. Gompers.

Mr. Gompers asserted that a large coal operator had told him that the whole trouble in Kansas was that Howat, the President of the Kansas Miners' Union, "had got the Governor's goat," and that the statute establishing the Industrial Court had no other cause.

"The Governor has now become a propagandist," Mr. Gompers continued. "He is now going around from his own great State, largely agricultural, preaching the gospel of his divine law to bring peace and comfort and the elimination of strikes, from our industrial life."

"The Governor says," Mr. Gompers continued "that he does not come here as a representative of capital, nor does he come here as a representative of labor, but that he represents all. I venture to call his attention to the fact that the Kansas State Federation of Labor adopted by unanimous vote a resolution denouncing not only the Kansas Industrial Relations Law, but also in not very nice terms, denouncing the Governor. The coal miners of Kansas in convention adopted a resolution attacking and denouncing the Kansas State Law for Industrial Relations.

"The Governor has gone before several of the legislatures of States, but he has also gone before bankers' associations and national manufacturers' associations and chambers of commerce. This is the first time that he has had the pleasure, as it is mine to meet him, as a representative of labor, and with all that as an American citizen and a part of the great Republic of the United States.

"The Governor has given an illustation here, and he has said that several times, about the jaw with its lower jaw and teeth, and the upper jaw and teeth; you heard that, did you not? You know the lower jaw is that upon which the pressure is made The lower jaw moves. The upper jaw is typical of those who have power and strength. The upper jaw does not move; it is stationary, it stands pat, and crushes the lower jaw.

OUTLAW STRIKES?

"I would like the Governor in his time to answer the fundamental question, whether strikes as such should be outlawed and made criminal, for that is the crux of the whole question. If there is nothing else, I have nothing to debate with him. If men may stop work there is no quarrel, no dispute.

"Men quarreling in front of his window, that is all right, but the men of labor who go out in a legitimate strike, they are not quarreling, they merely fold their arms and walk away and do nothing, not even disturb the slumber of the Governor. Stop strikes by law; prohibit them, make them unlawful! My friends, it was a strike of the people, of the working people of Germany, that prevented the reaction, the military reaction, the coup d'etat inaugurated under General Kapp to restore the old regime and drove the Government of the Republic of Germany out of Berlin and established itself when the workers went on strike and defeated General Kapp and his reactionaries.

"If there were to arise in the United States some other coup d'etat, if there were an attempt to establish, an oligarchy or a monarchy in the United States, and if it were successful or partially successful, if the workmen of Kansas would go on strike to prevent it and safeguard the Republic the Governor would send them to jail."

Governor Allen began his rebuttal with the assertion that Gompers had misstated the situation with regard to strikes in Kansas. He characterised the strife between capital and labor as "civil war."

"It is the only private conflict in the world which Government has not recognised and taken on the responsibility for, the only one," he said. "We have stamped out every other one, from dueling to fist fighting. Can we not find in this obligation of Government to protect the people and render just and equitable judgment a remedy?

"Mr. Gompers has taken considerable pains to define the strike, but he has not defined it He has said nothing of the right of the man who does not want to go out on a strike. He has said nothing of that fundamental provision in union labor for the compulsory organisation of labor, not a word, and yet it stands out as a great and operative principle in it, what John Mitchell said in an article in the official paper of labor. 'The compulsory unionisation of men will become in time as natural a thing as compulsory education of children on the part of the Government, and men will think no more of it than the child thinks of being compelled to go to school.' Ah, my friends, if there is going to be any compulsion in this country of one man over another, than in God's name let us have that compulsion directed by government.

"He has talked to us a good deal tonight reminding us of the work of labor in the war. I would say no word tonight that would rob labor of any of its patriotic impulses in the war. I would say no word touching those splendid young men from the ranks of labor who went out with the farmer's son and the merchant's son and the students from the colleges who trained side by side with them in the training camps and fought with them in France.

"Their conduct is such that it elevates them to a degree that leaves them out of this controversy, but when we come to make some investigation of the part of labor leaders in the war, can we say it was any more patriotic than capital? Six thousand strikes from the 8th day of April, 1917, to the 15th day of November, 1918—6,000 strikes in industries which were producing the sinews of war; strikes on your docks that prevented the loading of ships taking supplies to the men in the battle line.

"I want to quote you here the statement of President O'Connell in a meeting in October, 1917. President O'Connell, representing the Metal Trades Department of the American Federation in an address at Washington, said:

"'It is the aim and the object and the effort of the leaders of organised labor, in our country to maintain organised labor, to maintain our rights, to strengthen our position and to be a part of the war, but we must be consulted, we must be taken into confidence, we must be sat down with, not by the employers but they who are in control of the Governmental affairs of the country.' Did anybody else say we will come out of this war stronger than when we went in?'"

"Did the mother who gave her boy say, 'The Government must sit down with me?' Oh, no. She said, 'It is all I have, but the Government is in peril, take him along.' And then Mr. O'Connor, speaking to those men who controlled shipbuilding, said, 'Nothing can take place, nothing can be done unless we are consulted and practically give our consent to it.

No movement can be, no movement can progress, no movement can become a power in this country, no movement can be successful unless the Trades Council Movement says so. And then speaking direct at this critical hour, when we were weighing the chances of helping our Allies and preparing to send 250,000 men across the sea in needed ships, he said: "You have the shipbuilding and we are not talking about getting a penny in our increase now. Now we are striking for dollars. You have forgotten that there is such a thing in the market any more. It is dollars we are talking about."

"I do not blame labor alone for it. (Applause). But labor cannot escape; labor led by this sort."

The labor representatives in the audience shrieked and booed. A voice called, "Who got the dollars?" Another voice shouted, "The millionaires have got it all." Mr. Gompers arose and shook a trembling admonitory finger at his turbulent supporters. Chairman Parker stepped to the side of Governor Allen, held up his hand, and said after quiet was restored:

"Just demonstrate to the Governor of Kansas at least that you are gentlemen."

Governor Allen then said: "Now, my friends, this was not the spirit of individual laboring men. This was the advice of labor leadership."

Then followed another demonstration. Half the audience clapped its hands vigorously. The other half howled and booed. The Governor continued:

"I believe that the day is coming, my friends, when the doctrine we presented in Kansas will come to be accepted as the broad and just and impartial remedy for the compulsion of unionism. I would not seek to wipe out unionism. I would seek only to place it under less radical direction.

"Here is a typical strike. Can you define the milk strike of Chicago, for example, as a legitimate and successful endeavor? It had the approval of all your labor leaders. It started out with a lockout. In Kansas the court would have prevented that. It is an essential industry. Of course we do not render decisions in the automobile business because Kansas has not yet come to the conclusion that the automobile industry is an essential business. We have merely taken under the direction of the law food, fuel, clothing, transportation, upon the broad principle that when you affect any of those industries you imperil the welfare of the public.

"Mr. Gompers some time ago in a speech said that these efforts had all been tried in Australia and New Zealand. My friends, there are no points of comparison between the Kansas law and the Australian law save in name.

"Any man who wishes an adjudication of his grievance in Kansas may come to the court and the State provides him with a lawyer,

Rotation Of The Moon

Garrett P. Serviss Shows Why Earth Sees But One Side Of Lunar Body

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

(Noted Astronomer and Writer on Subjects of Scientific Interest)

"Why does the moon show us the same surface year in and year out, if, as I suppose, she is a revolving body? This may not be a puzzling question, but it is to my mind. Another question: What is the latest explanation of the nature of the rings surrounding Saturn, and which is the most reasonable?

"A. C. B., Milwaukee."

By "revolving body" you evidently mean "rotating body." When one celestial body travels around another, or, more accurately, around the center of gravity of the two, we call its motion "revolution," but when it turns around its own axis, like the earth, its motion is called "rotation."

The earth revolves around the sun once in a year, and during the same period rotates on its axis about 365 times, or once in a solar day.

The moon revolves around the earth once a month and rotates on her axis once in about the same time. It follows that while the earth presents all of her sides successively toward the sun 365 times in the course of every revolution, the moon presents only one of her sides, and always the same one, toward the earth, keeping that side continually facing the earth, not only throughout every month but month after month forever.

ONE SIDE HIDDEN

If the moon did not revolve on her axis we would, once in the course of a month, see all of her sides in succession. If, on the other hand, she rotated more rapidly than she revolves, as the earth does, then, too, she would present all of her sides in succession to the earth, not only once in the course of a month, but as many times in a month as the period of rotation was contained in the period of revolution.

And, if the moon's rotation was less rapid than her revolution, again she would show all her sides, but in a period longer than a month, the length of the period varying with the ratio of the time of revolution to that of rotation, but, in this case, she would seem to rotate backward, i. e., contrary to her direction of monthly revolution.

Now, in strict fact, the moon's rotation is not precisely synchronous with her revolution, for, while her rotation is performed at a regular, unvarying rate, her revolution is variable, owing to the eccentricity of her orbit, which causes her distance from the earth to become alternately greater or less. Her speed of revolution increases when she is farther.

The result is that when her rotation rate gains on her revolution rate, one edge of that hemisphere which is generally turned away from the earth, is brought a little way into view, while when the rotation becomes less rapid than the revolution, the opposite edge of the hidden hemisphere peeps into view. This phenomenon is called the "libration" (balancing) of the moon.

The rings of Saturn are supposed to consist of enormous numbers of very small bodies, or perhaps mere particles, revolving around the great planet like a whirl of dust. But each particle travels in an orbit, like a minute satellite or moon.

If our moon were divided into grains of sand or particles of dust it might be distributed around the earth so that, as seen from Mars or Venus it would present an appearance resembling the rings of Saturn.

CLOSELY CROWDED

The particles must be closely crowded in order to look, as they do even in the most powerful telescopes, like smooth, solid rings, and it is likely that incessant collisions take place among them. The result of such collisions may eventually be to cause the rings to collapse upon the planet, because every collision must deprive the colliding particles of a certain amount of their energy of motion.

But it is evident that this process can only be a very slow one, because the rings have been studied by astronomers for many years without showing any perceptible diminution, or any general falling in toward the planet.

Outside the rings Saturn has no less than nine moons, revolving at various distances, and the origin of at least the nearest of these moons, as well as that of the rings themselves, might be accounted for on the principle of the now partially discarded nebular theory of Laplace, which assumes that rings of matter left off at the circumference of a rotating and contracting nebular mass would finally break up the substance of each ring collecting into the form of a satellite revolving around the central body formed by the condensation of the principal mass at the center.

But if a ring were formed within less than a certain critical distance from the center it would be subject to forces that would prevent it from breaking up and concentrating into a single body, or satellite. The critical distance in the case of Saturn falls just outside the outer border of the rings. If they had been farther away they might have become one or more satellites.

or whatever he needs, if he wishes a lawyer, for the development of all the facts in his case. If he wants an engineer or a coal mining expert, or a welfare worker, the State provides that instrumentality through which all the facts in the case may be developed. And then after the case has been heard in that Court of Industrial Relations, if the aggrieved party is not satisfied, he may appeal to the Supreme Court of the State, and there again the State provides free of charge a transcript of the evidence, all the expert that is needed to develop the facts in the case, and then when the Supreme Court, answerable to all of the people of my State, has made a decision, it remains decided as to the cause upon which they spoke.

"Any man may quit work anywhere in Kansas, any time he pleases, and go on about his other business if he has any. Any man or any group of men may quit. But they are not allowed to come around places with brickbats in their pockets for the purpose of preventing the other fellow who may wish to go to work.

"If Mr. Gompers gets around to the point where he figures an answer to the question as to how he would protect the public against the wrongs of industrial warfare, then we will be making some progress toward remedying it. But, until union labor leaders reach the conclusion that a constructive program under order is possible in this country, then we will have no progress."

Governor Allen next returned to his attack on Gompers' political policy of electing members of Congress friendly to labor and quoted his appeal of March 29 to organised labor as showing a movement to "unionise" the Congress of the United States.

"I take it," he said, "to be the right of the American people to decide upon whether they wish to do this thing or not. I do not believe they will decide to do it. I do not deny to labor its right to its fullest liberty in politics. I think it is perfectly all right, and I think that when you meet the issues of this country that you ought to meet them that way, not by seeking to unionise Congress, but by seeking through the instrumentality of your solidarity to place the constructive measures that you have upon the statute books of the land; that is all right.

"But that is not what they are doing tonight in the Port of New York; that is not what they sought to do in the steel strike; that is not what they sought to do along the long line of strikes in this country, which were always accompanied by disorder; that is not what they did down in Virginia where nine men were killed the other day.

"When Mr. Gompers tells us of how we grew through strife and pain—we do, but we are growing through that kind of strife and pain. We have never grown stronger by class warfare in the United States of America, and we never will grow stronger through class warfare. Our only hope is in a constructive program which brings you under the leadership gallant as it has always been, with Mr. Gompers, into a program that will cause America to go forward according to the basic principles of our Constitution which guarantees to us the rights of the majority, not the minority."

Immediately after Mr. Gompers began his sur-rebuttal and was justifying his quoting of Lincoln by saying that Lincoln would be on the side of the poor man, some one in the audience shouted:

"I am poorer than you."

"I will bet you two cents that I am poorer than you," Mr. Gompers retorted after a storm of shouts and boos had quieted. "What is your name?" he added leaning forward and peering into the audience.

"What is your name? Who asked that question?"

"He dasn't tell it," a voice cried.

"It is a filthy, cowardly, ungentlemanly insinuation," Mr. Gompers declared, bringing down his fist in the direction from which the original remark had come.

In sur-rebuttal Governor Allen repeated his question as to whether Mr. Gompers believed that the public had any rights in the disputes between labor and capital. Mr. Gompers again evaded the answer by repeating his remark concerning the questions of a child.

"How about the answer?" called a loud voice from the first gallery.

"Why don't you shut up?" retorted the labor leader. "The question is really a catch question and one that a lawyer might put to a witness upon the stand, such as 'Do you still beat your wife?' If you answer in the affirmative, why, you are still beating her, and if you answer in the negative it would indicate that you have stopped beating her."

Alton B. Parker presided. The meeting was under the direction of two committees, the Chairmen of which were Hugh Frayne, General Organiser of the American Federation of Labor, representing Mr. Gompers, and R. J. Caldwell, representing Governor Allen. Peter J. Brady was the official timekeeper for Mr. Gompers. Victor Withstandley performing a similar function for Governor Allen.

The serial becomes more and more interesting as the film rolls on. We finished last week at a very critical moment for JAMES CORBETT who is to be crushed to death under the elevator—Now you ought to see how the events will turn out tomorrow night.

EVERYBODY SHOULD SEE THIS MAGNIFICENT serial which is so marvellously constructed that even if some of the episodes are not seen the thread of the story can easily be picked up from the subsequent episodes.
